

Council adopts report prepared by Office of the Fire Marshal recommending changes

Stanhope Fire Department to reorganize

A report prepared by the Office of the Fire Marshal for Stanhope Township as made public last week, and its recommendations have become the basis of the fire department's reorganization.

Last Wednesday night, in a closed-door meeting, Stanhope council met with representatives from the Fire Marshal's office to vote on recommendations which came about as a result of an investigation by the office. Council voted to accept the report, and its recommendations, but Reeve Jim Harrison and councillor Roger Woods voted to reject it, resulting in a three to two vote in favour of the document.

The first recommendation the report made dealt with the fire department's reorganization, and that a by-law "to establish a fire department", under certain provisions of The Municipal Act be undertaken.

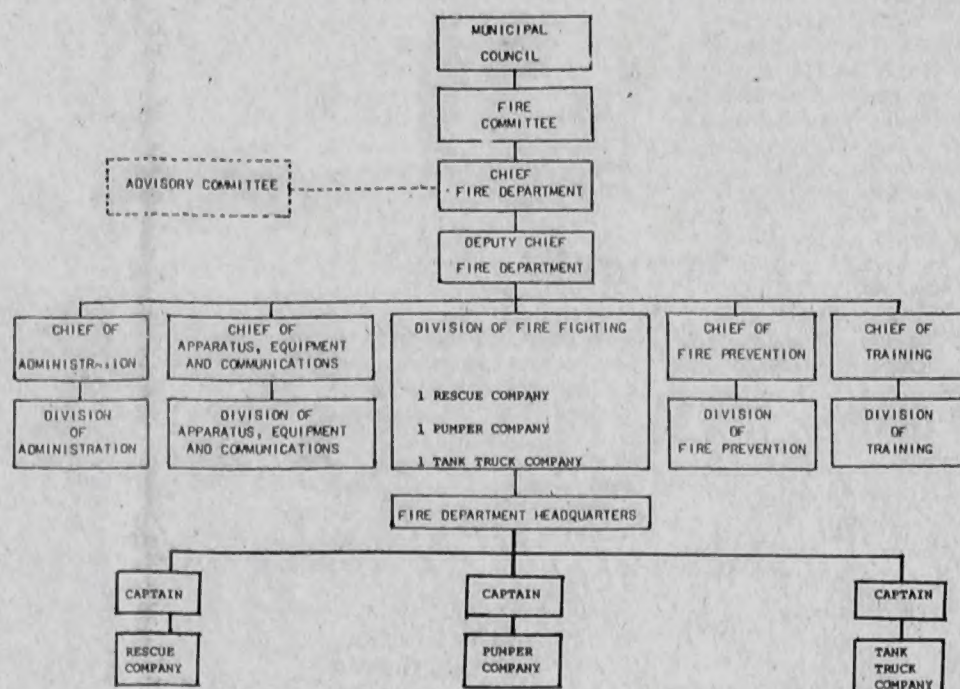

But key recommendations and findings in the report followed. The document advised that a "Fire committee of three members of council be established." It reported that "former fire chief R. H. Kinsman appears to have been dismissed for reasons that are not justifiable to warrant such a serious penalty. A conflict of personalities is quite evident. Mr. Kinsman has a very good knowledge of how a fire department should be administered, is respected by other fire officials and has conscientiously carried out his duties as fire chief." The preceding sentences in the report dealt with Kinsman's firing of four firefighters, and stated he "did wrongfully dismiss four members of the fire department whereas he should have suspended the members and recommended to council that they be dismissed, if this was his feeling." It added that Kinsman "has been criticized for a lack of leadership on the fire ground by some, and praised by others."

Recommendations listed included that Kinsman "be unconditionally reinstated as chief of the Stanhope Township Fire Department and that a by-law be passed appointing him as chief."

The report went on to recommend that "Chief Kinsman be instructed by council to assume a command position at fires and that actual fire fighting at fire scenes be left to fire fighters when at all possible."

Provisions and by-laws were suggested to help regulate the chief's duties, but in what was perhaps the most stark comment on the report, the office said that "this office cannot condone the mass resignation of the firefighters when it leaves a municipality without fire protection. "However," the report went on to say, "in the case of your

The new department will be organized into branches

firefighters' resignations, we feel council must accept at least some responsibility as the firefighters must have acted out of total frustration and may have had no other way of drawing attention to their plight."

As a result, the report went on to state, positions on the fire department are to "be advertised and sufficient officers and firefighters be enrolled for the fire department under the terms of the ...Regulating By-law."

"Assistance may be obtained from the office of the Fire Marshal in conducting promotional interviews for the position of chief or deputy chief of the department."

The document recommended that a "fire prevention officer and training officer be appointed," and went on to deal with the subject of honourarium.

"The firefighters are volunteer firefighters and as defined in the Fire Department Act, "Volunteer Firefighter" means a person who voluntarily acts as a firefighter for a nominal consideration or honourarium. Council, in their generosity, decided to provide such an honourarium and the manner in which it was divided resulted in some dissatisfaction."

Two drown on weekend, both bodies recovered

Two drownings occurred within a span of three days in Haliburton County this past weekend.

The first occurred on Friday afternoon on the Gull River three to four miles north-east of Minden, when a 30-year old Mississauga man failed to return from a snorkeling trip.

The deceased, Thomas G. Barbour, went snorkeling in the river after arriving at his cottage. Moments later, his wife called for him, but she heard no response.

Divers from the provincial police detachment in Minden, Constables Connelly and Pearson, recovered the body at 12 noon the following day.

The cause of death was found to be drowning. Dr. H. E. Good, coroner at the scene, pronounced Barbour dead.

No inquest or no post mortem will be held.

A second drowning occurred on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. when a 17-year old Toronto boy dove off a dam into fast water at the Kennis Lake dam.

The incident occurred when Neil A. St. Jean and about 20 others had gathered at the dam, a popular area for teenagers on the lake. St. Jean dove off the dam into the fast water in an area filled with old crib logs and about two feet of water. He then struck the bottom of the river bed and was carried away from the dam by fast water. The body then sank.

The deceased was recovered about a half an hour later by Kirk Schmidt, 15, of Toronto, who had some scuba gear. He located the body in about 25 feet of water.

Dr. H. E. Good, coroner, pronounced St. Jean dead at the scene.

No inquest or post mortem will be held.

Company plans to research, begin multi-million dollar uranium project

A $7 million dollar uranium mining program which could create 60 to 80 new jobs in and around Haliburton County may become a reality as early as next year. A Toronto-based company can meet government requirements.

The proposal, currently under intensive study by Rare Earth Resources Limited of Toronto, entails mining uranium in three different sites in Monmouth, Cardiff and Galway-Cavendish Townships. The properties are owned by the company, which is receiving financing for the project from Imperial Oil and Dickson Mines.

"Basically," said company president Vince White in a telephone interview Monday, "what we're looking at doing is bringing into production the Rare Earth mineral properties from a mining standpoint that are in...those townships with a view to having them mined and operated in those townships, while complying with the necessary requirements and regulations as laid down by all levels of government."

White said there would be no installation of major milling facilities at the sites, but rather upgraded existing facilities, used years ago by a parent company would be used. Preliminary economic studies have been completed by the company, but a feasibility study investigating social, environmental and economic impacts is currently underway. The total cost of the project, "talking in ball park figures," said White, would be $7 million.

"That could be 12 million dollars or that could be four, because there's a number of factors that vary," according to company managing director Leon LaPrairie. Though a new mill will not be built, LaPrairie stated, "an upgraded concentrator" will be installed in the mining area. He added that "much" of the labour would come from workers hired within the municipalities.

A field crew which will be doing environmental and mineral-related tests have begun sampling and surveying today in the areas, said LaPrairie. "The crew in the field will be taking readings along the road approximately every 15 feet to get radioactive readings. This is a base line that we'll use for the remainder of the project. If we're hauling ore over the road a year from now, we can take readings and compare them with our base line." Base line studies will also be taken along water streams, said LaPrairie, near the sites of the proposed operations. This aspect of the program is expected to be completely underway "by the end of August," and a go-ahead licence, according to LaPrairie, is also expected from the Atomic Energy Control Board "by the end of October." The licence will allow the company to begin excavating underground, and LaPrairie said "we expect to be in full production within the year." Storage facilities, a new mill conveyor system, and a truck-wing section are some of the additions the company will have to install before commencing production.

"The interest is there, the assurance of financing is there, as long as we get approval from the regulatory bodies," added LaPrairie. A number of reports, the first of which is being submitted this week on environment impact, must also be prepared for government approval of the project.

Kevin O'Flaherty, one of the engineers involved in the Rare Earth Resources mining project, said the first site will be located in the north-western portion of Cardiff Township. "In back of Wilberforce actually." The second site will be the old Rare Earth and Blue Rock properties in Monmouth Township along the Hadlington Road. In Cavendish Township, the third site will be located in the vicinity of Catchacoma Lake. "It's not on Catchacoma Lake," O'Flaherty stressed, "we don't want to upset any cottagers." Field crews are also studying any potential pollutants excavating in the townships may cause. "Really, nobody knows what the heck we're dealing with, so it's better to be a little on the safe side," O'Flaherty said. In the late 1950's the properties hoped to be mined by Rare Earth Resources,

"had letters of intent from the federal government uranium buying agency," said O'Flaherty, for contracts. But by 1957, there was a glut of uranium on the market, and "they (the government) could not convert

Haliburton to become site of solar-heated building

Haliburton will become the site of a new, experimental solar-heated office and storage building.

The facility will be erected by Parks Canada, and aside from providing the present Haliburton district crew of six men with new office and storage facilities, the building will become the first Parks Canada structure in Ontario to be heated by solar energy.

The present area branch office, which handles local Trent/Severn reservoir lakes, is located in the Bishop building in Haliburton Village, and is not adequate for storing stop logs or making repairs to equipment. Logs are currently stored on private property, and repair work is done outside.

"The main reason we decided to build a new office in Haliburton was to combine both a storage area and office," said chief Parks Canada district engineer, Wayne Pacey.

The federal government, according to Pacey, is experimenting with solar heating for pioneer companies engaged in the business, and consequently many new government office buildings will be constructed with solar energy systems. Cost of the

Kinsman decides not to return to department, despite report recommendations

Former Stanhope fire chief rejects reinstatement offer

Former Stanhope fire chief Richard Kinsman has decided he will not return to the department as chief despite strong recommendations in a Fire Marshal's report that he be reinstated by council.

Following the adoption of the report, which holds a number of recommendations, suggested by-laws and amendments for the reorganization of the department, council contacted Kinsman and asked that he return as chief.

"What mainly concerned me," said Kinsman in a telephone interview Monday night, "was the split vote in council." He added that if council had voted unanimously to reinstate him, "I would have considered it. And I don't doubt that my answer would have been yes, that I would have gone back."

But when council divided concerning the decision to adopt the Fire Marshal's report, Kinsman felt that "all they (council) would have to do is to get one councillor to change his mind and then we're back into the same mess again." Kinsman said he will definitely not apply for the job of chief "under these conditions."

Concerning the document itself, Kinsman said, "I'm sure pleased with the report...although some people are saying it's a biased report, I say it's not because I did not know the investigator before I met him up here in Stanhope."

A paragraph in the report charged Kinsman with wrongfully dismissing four members of the fire department "Whereas he should have suspended the members and recommended to council that they be dismissed," Kinsman said that he has "to agree that I did make that mistake," but added the move was on the advice of former reeve, Sinc Nesbitt. "So this is the way I did it," he said. "So what I would like to do is to apologize for the mistake."

Kinsman added that he was "really sorry," because "there are 20 firefighters in this municipality that are A-1, and they should not have been treated the way they've been treated."

Stanhope reeve Jim Harrison was also contacted Monday night, and was asked to comment on the report. Harrison and councillor Roger Woods were the only two members of council who voted to reject the report Wednesday night.

Harrison said he felt "it was a good report," but in response to Kinsman's remarks said, "I'm not going to musling."

The report contained "some good points and some bad points from my point of view," Harrison stated, noting "that this hassle has been going on long enough...I'd like to see things straightened up, and for Stanhope to become the township it was a few years ago." The report overall, commented Harrison, "will be very beneficial," but added that there were "some things in the report" that he did not concur

Hydro asked to stop spraying

Galway-Cavendish Township council has concurred with a cottage owners association's request that Ontario Hydro suspend the use of chemical defoliants for clearing vegetation along hydro line right-of-ways.

The move has created "a hub-bub" in the township according to clerk Joan McCausland. Council voted unanimously at a recent meeting in favour of the request by the Beaver Lake Cottagers' Association. Council, said McCausland, based their decision on recent adverse publicity concerning the use of chemical herbicides along the right-of-ways, and its effect of the environment along the sprayed area.

Council has sent a letter to Ontario Hydro agreeing with the sentiments of the cottage owners.

According to the Lindsay Post, Beaver Lake Cottagers' Association Chairman, Gord Reams, is asking Hydro to stop the spraying "because in my opinion, they have no right to kill everything in sight and create such utter devastation." Reams said he wants the spraying stopped completely, even though Ontario Hydro has said they do not intend to spray on easements, the strip of hydro line land that runs across private property, this year.

Hydro representatives are maintaining that chemical herbicides such as Desernome, diphenoprop and combinations of 2, 4-D and 2, 4-DE are used on a selective basis and under stringent government controls. Hydro has balked in the past with suspending spraying since it costs four times as much to use mechanical methods of control as opposed to chemical herbicides. The chemicals are used only on broad-leaved deciduous trees that react to being clipped by producing more limbs.

People worried about the run-off of chemicals into nearby bodies of water can take samples to the Ministry of Environment for testing, according to Hydro representatives.

"Under the present levy of toxicity at which the chemicals are used, it is safe for a human being to come into normal contact with them an hour after a hydro line has been sprayed," said Hydro's vegetation control officer, Brian Allen.

Senior citizens get grant

The Glamorgan Senior Citizens Club was awarded $8,452 under a New Horizons Grant recently.

The grant, which is a federal government program that enables retired people to create projects of their own choosing, will be used to finance costs for recreational programs including crafts, dances, darts, shuffleboard and sing-songs.

The group is among 52 in Ontario to receive the grants totalling $278,668.

with, though he did not elaborate upon what these were. He also did not give a specific reason as to why he voted to reject the report, but said the recommendation that he department be broken into five divisions "struck me a little rough."

Harrison said he didn't wish to comment on further issues dealt with in the report "at this time."

Reorganized

"The system of dividing honourariums should be agreed to by a majority vote of all fire department members with the fire committee in attendance."

Since the recommendations were acceptable to council, the last sections of the report are now implemented, namely that, the office will provide a "40-hour basic training course for three hours each week for the reorganized fire department. We would also be prepared to monitor the fire department operations on a monthly basis for six months with a monthly meeting of the proposed fire committee and fire department officers meeting without representative." In concluding, it added that "there must be concessions made by all parties and a united effort made to resolve differences."

With the suggestions made by the report now accepted and approved, the first move by council has been to advertise for new firefighters. The Fire Marshal's Office is currently working toward the department's reorganization.

Bell contract negotiations stall again, strikers walk off jobs for third time

Contract talks have stalled once again between Bell Canada employees and management.

Last Thursday, county residents felt the impact of the continuing nation-wide, rotating strike as 140 employees from the Haliburton-Peterborough/Lindsay district walked off the job. The employees' union rejected the latest conciliation report, which was voted upon on July 9, by a 71.88 percent majority. The employees have been working without a contract since December.

Strikes across the country have intensified since talks broke off on July 11, and Haliburton district employees have walked off their jobs three times since striking began on June 11. The workers, including linemen, installers and central office employees, have also refused to work any overtime, causing delays in some of the more involved jobs around the county. Essential services including installation are still being carried out, according to Bell officials.

The Bell employees are pushing for a one-shot cost of living allowance that will see their wages rise if the con-

Anyone for a bicycle ride?

These travellers will take you

When members of the Ontario Cycling Association rolled into Haliburton last Wednesday, most of them mud spattered and sticky with sweat, it was hard to believe they were having their holidays.

But they were, nearly 40 of them, and most of the members were hard pressed to think of other ways to spend their time off. They actually laboured on their vacation, and loved doing it.

The weary travellers were part of a tour organized by the Ontario Cycling Association (O.C.A.) and passed through Haliburton, stopping only for lunch, on the eleventh day after leaving Toronto.

The route had taken them from the city to Kingston, Ottawa, Bancroft, to Haliburton County. The tour concluded July 28, when the members completed the 'loop' back to Toronto. And despite all the long hills, the loose gravel, swampy paths and 50-mile days, there have been no complaints or regrets, for the trip has been dubbed a "friendship tour".

Les Humphreys, director of the tour, stopped in at Haliburton with the final pack on Wednesday with a smile on his face, and sweat on his brow. "It's the only way to see a reasonable amount of outdoors without the discomfort of flies and what not," he said. "The object of the tour was to give people a chance to ride who have bought new ten speed bikes, and didn't know what to do with them, and to show them what real cycling is all about."

The O.C.A. has a full yearly program of tours, and Humphreys recalled when he last passed through this area. The year was 1975, and "a motley group" of cyclists toured this area as a "pre-Olympic thing". The roads, some of them, are still as beautiful as ever, he said.

"That Highway 121 is beautiful and smooth, just great for riding," Humphreys stated, while quickly ramming the rest of a corned beef sandwich into his mouth. "Have to put more energy into the machine."

People from Trenton, Toronto, Sarnia, Long Island, Chicago, Detroit, and Dallas decided to spend their vacation peddling around Ontario on this tour. The physical capabilities are varied, but rider Mark Walker of Trenton says "things have gone pretty well so far."

project will be "in the 50 to $100,000 range," said Pacey, and the building should occupy about 1600 square feet.

The experimental building will utilize a hot air method of heating, and will contain a "hot rock" bin for heat storage. Most current solar-related energy systems use water as the heating source, "so this is a bit different," Pacey said.

The building will be located on the right south-east corner of Paradise Lake on a Dysart Township road, about three miles from Haliburton Village. "We looked at quite a few locations before we chose this one," said Pacey. "But all of them required extensive rock excavation. This site became available, and it's suitable for building on, so we took it."

But despite the excellent location to facilitate construction, Pacey admits there are some "negative" aspects to the site. The building, once erected, will "not be in a prime location."

"Really, if you want to get right down to it," said Pacey, "as far as being visible, it's not. It's off the beaten path."

An ideal location would be a site where the public could readily see the building, giving more opportunity for public comment, said Pacey.

On the positive side, the area's cold winter temperatures will give the system "an excellent test." Though the Haliburton Parks Canada crew will not be in the office or workshop continuously, Pacey said he expects the system will receive "a pretty good going over."

Construction is slated to begin in September, but tender notices have just been advertised, and commencement will depend upon when a contractor is selected. Officials hope the facility will be completed in January, but because this type of experimental program is so young, and federal budget constraints have been so tight, the project could be scrapped depending on its cost. Funds for the building were released only six months ago, said Pacey.

"Until solar heat came into the picture," he added, "we would've started building by now."

these letters of intent into financing of the properties," because the contracts could not be fulfilled in time "to cash in," said O'Flaherty.

Investigators within the company are still looking into possible markets for the uranium, but O'Flaherty said "it will be some power company somewhere. This will be another important aspect the feasibility study will contain, O'Flaherty explained.

He said he and other company representatives "will work very closely with the local councils." Since concrete information has not been gathered concerning the proposal, representatives of Rare Earth Resources have not had any major meeting as yet, O'Flaherty said.

"We'll be in with them just as soon as we possibly can," he said. "But we have to have something solid to offer them (councils)."

Large crowd expected for Rotary parade

The bands will strike up at 6:45 p.m., tonight (Wednesday) at the Rotary Beach and the 1979 Haliburton Rotary Summer Carnival parade will be underway. Music for the parade will be supplied by the Haliburton Legion Pipe Band, The Canadian Knights from Peterborough and the Port Hope Sea Cadet Band.

Thousands are expected to line the streets of the village to view the annual spectacle that will feature floats, clowns, marching units and will be highlighted by the visit once again of the ever popular Carlsberg team and wagon.

The parade with this year's theme being "Year of the Child" will leave Rotary Beach and come out the entrance by the Salvation Army Hall up Victoria Street, turning right onto Pine Street then past the United Church, to the white bridge and then down Highland Street, turning right onto Station Street and then back to the Rotary Beach.

The midway will be in operation at 1 o'clock today and will continue right through until the end of the carnival. At 8 p.m. it will be bingo in the Legion Hall and the Golden Nugget will re-open for a second night. A dance will also be held tonight in the curling arena.

The highlight of tonight's activities will be the draw for a 1979 G.M.C. van which will take place at 10:30 p.m.

Child struck by car, suffers injuries

A 5-year-old West Guilford child suffered minor injuries when he was struck by a car on County Road #7 Saturday afternoon.

Daniel Allin, aged five, was walking northbound on the west edge of the road when a southbound vehicle being driven by Cheryl Nicholls, 17, of West Guilford, met a northbound vehicle on a curve. The Nicholls' car then swerved to the west edge of the road, striking the child. The Nicholls' car sustained no damage.

A Toronto man has been charged with not turning in safety after he tried entering a private driveway when another car tried to pass him on highway 35, north of Minden, Thursday afternoon.

Frank H. Somers, 66, was southbound on the highway when a car being driven by Victor Ewstratin, 18, of Minden, attempted to pass the Somers car. Somers then turned the car east, and attempted to enter a private driveway, when the other vehicle collided with him.

The Ewstratin vehicle sustained $400 damage, while damage to the Somers car is estimated at $1500 damage.

A 24-year-old Oshawa man escaped with minimal injury and was charged with passing on an unclear roadway when the car he was driving collided with another on highway 648 last Monday afternoon.

Gilbert Boucher was charged after he attempted to pass a car and trailer being driven by William Brown, 37, of Milton, on his motorcycle. The Brown car slowed to turn off the highway when the Boucher vehicle was to the side of the Brown vehicle.

No estimate of damage is available on the Boucher motorcycle at this time, but the Brown car and trailer sustained $800 damage.

A Haliburton man escaped with minor injuries after the car he was driving lost control and struck a tree on County Road #7 Saturday morning.

Kevin A. Sisson, 19, was eastbound on the road when he lost control of the vehicle and struck a tree on the south side of the road.

The car sustained $5,000 damage.

A 31-year-old Ottawa man was charged with careless driving after his southbound vehicle entered an east ditch on highway 35 south of Minden, Thursday afternoon.

Gilles Labelle was charged following the mishap, in which his car also struck a rock cut. Damage to the car is estimated at $1500.

A Crediton man was charged with failing to report an accident forthwith and received minor injuries following a mishap with his motorcycle a week ago last says. "I found a smile in every person each day."

He speaks carefully and well now, in strikingly expressive English tinged with a Spanish accent, but when he arrived in Canada, it was different. Canada had not been his first choice. He explains that in Argentina, awareness of the United States is very high. Argentinians wear American clothes, drive American cars if they can afford them, listen to American music. Canada is an unknown quantity. So it was with some trepidation that Alex accepted a chance to come to Canada.

"I thought I was going to come to a place like Alaska," he says, smiling at the recollection. "snow and bears and Indians."

But when he stepped off the plane in Toronto, his first reaction was one of amazement. Instead of snow and Indians, he saw bright sunshine, warm temperatures and a huge, modern city.

It was the first of many eye-opening experiences in what he says has turned out to be "the best year of my life."

The English he speaks today is worlds removed from the halting knowledge of the language he had when he arrived, and learning to communicate with local people was, he says, his "biggest problem". In his first months here, he was easy prey for the good natured teasing of his fellow students at HHSS. The teasing never bothered him, he recalls. He faced it all with a smile, and the attitude quickly won him respect and admiration.

The experience of living in a small community has been a novel and rewarding one, Alex says.

"I think I am lucky. If I had gone to a larger city, it would not have been the same. It's easier to get involved here."

'I think I am... more patient...'

And get involved he did. As a student at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, he participated in everything he could find time for, including outers trips that took him canoe tripping into wilderness country, where he marvelled at the clear lakes, the abundance of fish, and the expanses of untouched bushland. He also participated in a variety of sports, and was named captain of the school's soccer team which came as no surprise, given the fact that soccer is at least as popular in Argentina as hockey is here. And of course, there were the parties and get-togethers organized by area teenagers. Whenever there was fun to be had, Alex, with his energetic approach to living, was there.

He thinks the ease with which he got along with people here might come as a surprise to his friends and family in Argentina. A year ago he was different.

"I got nervous and mad very easily," he recalls. "But when I got here, I thought: the people are not going to change for me; I have to change for them. I had to be flexible."

He thinks with the effort he made, the change has been worth it. "I think I am older, more patient now."

"When you're an exchange student, you're representing your country, and you have to do your best."

The idea of acting as an ambassador for his country is beginning to hold much appeal for Alex. Before his year in Canada, he completed a year in an agricultural engineering course at a college. When he returns to Argentina, he thinks he will switch to political science.

"I think that my future could be in relations with people," Alex says, and he is considering the possibility of serving in the diplomatic corps for his country.

If he had one overriding impression of life in Canada, it is that Canadians do not appreciate what they have. This country, Alex believes, is incredibly rich, not only in material goods, but in opportunity.

"You have here, opportunities for anything. The key is to work hard for something."

He found it hard to understand at first, how Canadians could be so offhand about acquisitions that would be the highlight of the average Argentinian's life. It might take a young person in his native country, years of working and saving to buy a new car. But here, Alex says, new cars are accepted without much excitement or interest. A trip to Europe would be possible for a Canadian youth who saved all the money he or she made washing dishes for four months at an area resort, Alex says. In Argentina, it would take many times as much work to pay for the same trip.

Part of the reason for Canada's high standard of living and relative industriousness, Alex thinks, is the weather. In Argentina, where it is warm most of the year, housing can be of lower quality, and clothing is not as important. Because Canadians need good houses, winter clothes, and central heating, they have to work harder to pay for those things, Alex thinks. The result is prosperity and a lack of serious social problems.

Economic problems and social problems go hand in hand, Alex says.

Leaving Canada in a little less than three weeks will not be easy, Alex admits.

"Every day in Canada was a new experience for me; a special experience and I think

I am going to miss everything. I think I am going to have a very hard time going back."

"I wish I could stay another year, but I think a year is enough." Though he says he is proud of the fact that he spent a year here, and learned as much as he did about another culture and another way of life, he says he will always be an Argentinian. "I'll never leave my country," he says, although he admits he'd like to spend a year or two working in Canada.

summer price index increases over eight percent. Wage rates themselves are also being disputed. According to one Bell worker, "job security is the main thing, and we want overtime to be on a voluntary basis."

It is not known when negotiations will recommence.

Cyclists in Haliburton

His reason for tagging along with the rest of the crew is similar to the mountaineer's excuse for climbing Mount Everest. "I think a sort of 'because it's there', is why I wanted to go."

One biker pointed out the various age groups present on the tour.

"One boys is eleven years old, and can keep up with the best riders in the group." The oldest member is 57 years old, but is as healthy, or healthier than most of the cyclists. "So nobody can use age as an excuse," one weary rider joked.

Another reason Walker came - and enjoyed - the ride was "to meet some people". And meet them he did. He pointed out that some close bonds formed only over a period of a week and a half. "It's as if I've known some of these people a lot longer than that."

And that factor, the appreciation for the motorists who slowed down, and the anticipation of the next road tour is what keeps these travellers on the road. Asked what he'll do when the group gets back to Toronto, Humphreys simply said "we'll plan for the next tour."

THE C.G.E. HEAT PUMP WILL CHANGE YOUR MIND ABOUT CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING

Before you install central air conditioning, we think you should know about Canadian General Electric's Weathertron Heat Pump.

It's famous for delivering reliable home heat and for lowering heating bills by 33 to 50%. In fact, the Weathertron is the best selling heat pump in North America.

But even though it's called a heat pump, the Weathertron will also pump cool, dehumidified air through your house for summer comfort. You get both economical heating and central air conditioning in one system.

The Weathertron can be added to your existing furnace, or it can be included in plans for a new home. And there's a Weathertron for almost any application.

The C.G.E. Weathertron Heat Pump is the sensible way to keep your cool this summer. And save money all winter long too.

A better future

For the first time in more than a year, a lasting solution to the Stanhope Fire Department's problems came in the form of a report prepared for the township by the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office. The report contains recommendations that collectively offer solutions that are fair and just to all concerned. It sets down a number of conditions, many of which will not be difficult if parties on both sides of the problem are willing to accept responsibility of the errors of the past, and cooperate on building a better department for the future.

Prepared at the request of council, after the Fire Marshal's Office indicated its concern at the resignation of the 20-man department early in June, the report is a document that says much about the roots of the township's fire department problems. From the outset, it is clear that fire chief Richard Kinsman, a dedicated public servant who believed in the fire department and its ability to serve the township well, has not been treated fairly. Although he acted beyond the bounds of his authority in dismissing more men from the department last year, the chief long maintained that the then reeve, Sinc Nesbitt, approved the action before it was taken. To avoid such misunderstandings in the future, the Fire Marshal's report advocates the passing of a comprehensive by-law to replace the department's present by-law, and clearly sets out the responsibilities to the chief and to council. It also recommends the unconditional reinstatement of the chief, a recommendation which agrees with a large number of firemen and ratepayers. The report also recommends that council instruct the chief to take a position of command at fires rather than actively engage in firefighting. The clause provides some indication to those former members of the department who claimed the chief was too quick to pick up an axe or hose, leaving other men without leadership or direction that is so essential to fire fighting.

When council decided to hire Dick Kinsman, it apparently did so without a clear conception of what importance he had within the department. The 20 volunteer firefighters who were on the department at that time believed Richard Kinsman was the man who most deserved to be chief. Unable to find support for their position, they submitted their resignations to council. While the Fire Marshal's report says the actions of the men cannot be condoned, it acknowledges that council must at least accept some responsibility for the mass resignation. Another key recommendation is one that deals with the monitoring of the department. In the past, council has had one representative from the department to act as a liaison between the two bodies. It has been a thankless job, particularly in view of the workload. To eliminate the pressure off one man, the report recommends the creation of a fire committee, which will make council aware of the department matters more readily than they have been in the past.

Those recommendations, will, in essence, mean a new start for the fire department. Under the terms of the new establishing by-law, those who wish to serve on the newly-organized department must apply to officials. Although council has not formally accepted the resignations of the men who quit in June, and currently have the 14-man interim department, passing of the new by-law will result in a completely reformed department, a move which paves the way for harmony.

If council acts on all the recommendations contained in the report, the Fire Marshal's Office has indicated that it will provide a 40-hour basic training course for all men in the department. Many of those who resigned from the department last year said that they had not been adequately trained, while those who remained at the department expressed satisfaction that training was both ongoing and adequate. The report's offer should ensure that all men who serve on the department are trained, and attendance at the course will in itself be evident to the degree of dedication essential for an effective department. Taken together, the recommendations in the Fire Marshal's report constitute a program of reorganization that would give the township a fire department it can once more be proud of, a department which will meet the needs of fire protection for years to come. Such a department provides not only a peace of mind for township ratepayers, but direct financial benefits through lower fire insurance rates. The recommendation, however, represents only the potential for a solution. Whether or not a solution results is well in the hands of the firefighters, council, and just as important, ratepayers.

Much ill will developed in the months of turmoil that plagued the department. The Fire Marshal's report is a restriction that will ensure little frustration. Combined with good will and a determination to get on with the future on the part of all concerned, the recommendations spell a better future that didn't seem possible in Stanhope a few months ago.

Summer time Goldenrod

As others see it

Though we often chose to ignore the fact, the car is a lethal and too often, deadly weapon. With the recent rash of accidents in the Seaford area and the release of statistics showing that accident fatalities in Ontario increased by 67.5 percent in the first three months of 1979, it's time to take a hard look at our driving habits.

When the speed limit on the province's highways was first reduced and seat-belts became mandatory, traffic fatalities dropped drastically and the highways became a better place to travel. You didn't reach your destination as quickly, but chances were better that you would reach it alive.

Now drivers are becoming careless again and drinking and speeding offences are taking their toll. It is one of the tragedies of highway travel that teenage drivers, less experienced at the wheel, are particularly vulnerable.

The solution on a personal level is obvious - wear your seat-belt, driver with a little more care, and respect the other motorists on the road. If you've been drinking, stay where you are. It's regrettable when drinking drivers are killed, but even more tragic when their carelessness claims the lives of passengers or other innocent motorists who had the misfortune to be on the road at the same time.

Now while drivers should practise self-discipline behind the wheel, it's obvious this isn't always the case. This is where our police forces come in - they can provide some preventative medicine and save lives in the process. Seat-belt checks should become routine. speeding motorists should be pulled off the road and drunk drivers removed from behind the wheel.

Since the police can't do this entirely on their own initiative, Ontario's Attorney General Roy McMurtry is asking for some help from the government. First, he wants an increase in the number of policemen patrolling our highways. Secondly, he's calling for heavier fines for traffic violations, so drivers can't escape with minimal fines even when their wrongdoing may have injured themselves and others. Finally, McMurtry wants drunk and careless drivers off the road for a longer period. With our present legislation, these drivers often receive a fine or suspended sentence, and they're back on the highways in no time, endangering their lives and the lives of others. We punish those who murder with weapons like guns or knives, but someone who uses a car to kill often escapes with only a fine.

In recent years, as many as 55,000 annually die on North American highways - a figure that makes the 276 lives lost in last week's DC-10 crash at Chicago O'Hara pale by comparison.

Whether or not the attorney general is able to enforce stricter driving laws, we hope drivers will remember that their licenses aren't licenses to endanger either themselves or others.

Too often a few moments of fun ends in tragedy. Newspaper reporters don't look forward to writing up accident post-mortems.

Television today brings into our living rooms everything from comedy and sports to horror movies and from time to time we see reality flashed across our screens. When this happens our first thoughts are to turn it off and all the tragedies that are in front of us will all go away. This is nice thinking but it just won't happen. We've seen the starving children of Biafra, the massacres of Jonestown, the atrocities in Uganda and South Africa, the cold blooded execution of a journalist in Nicaragua and now the Vietnamese refugees and the sad plight of the "boat people". Most of us feel concern, we're touched, but we must go on with our own lives, our own problems, after all, that's what has always been important. Canada, compared to other countries, is underpopulated. We have one of the highest standards of living, the greatest amount of natural resources and, in my opinion, the greatest potential of any civilized country. We also have the greatest number of greedy, selfish, grasping people in the world. All you have to do to realize this is to read some of the letters to the editor that appear practically every night in the Toronto Star. I am personally concerned about the problems that fact the boat people and what really gets me down is the fact that if some of these people who are writing these letters were in the same position they would be screaming and yelling for someone to help them. How would they like to see their children starving and sick. I have the feeling that most of the people here in Haliburton County do care and will back it up with their financial donations, clothing, housing accommodation and in any way they can help.

I was talking to Harold Bannon one day last week and he told me that he would like to take this opportunity to thank the chairmen of the various committees and all those who worked with them and who gave freely of their time to make the Haliburton Old Time Fiddling and Step Dancing Championships held in Haliburton recently, the success that it was.

Jim Gregory, general manager of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs for the past 10 seasons, has been appointed director of central scouting for the NHL. He replaces Jack Button, who resigned earlier this month to become director of player personnel for the Washington Capitals. Gregory, 43, also will act as liaison with the general managers' committee and will work on the NHL's player development programs at both the amateur and professional level. Jim Gregory is well-known in the Haliburton area as he vacations here every summer and is a part-owner of PineStone Inn and Country Club. We join with his many friends in wishing him the best of luck in his new position.

The Christian Service Brigade from Camp Kakeka near Haliburton took part in a recent Sunday morning service at the Haliburton United Church. Fifteen boys and their leader formed the choir to lead the singing and two of the boys gave their personal testimonies telling of what the Lord has meant in their lives. John Miller, the head cook at the camp, delivered the sermon. The service team program has been developed for young men between the ages of 15 and 18. This program lasts for ten weeks and consists of training and service in all areas of the camp operation, as well as training in the Christian life.

For the past year, the "We Treat You Royally" campaign has been in progress and we are happy to report with great success. Local people are starting to realize that if we want the visitors to come back to the Highlands of Haliburton, then we must make sure that we treat them royally and keep those smiles up front. During the past week, two or three of the local merchants, plus some local citizens told us that this is a two-way street and that some of our visitors when treated royally should use enough common sense not to be rude to some of the business people, which is apparently happening in a few cases.

There is one thing that the Minden Rotary Carnival, the Haliburton Legion Carnival and the Wilberforce Country Good Times proved to us and that is the fact that the large turnouts at these events go to show you that people are looking for something to do. It doesn't seem to matter how many events are staged, people still turn out by the hundreds.

Tonight's the night (Wednesday, August 1) for the annual Haliburton Rotary Summer Carnival parade which will get underway at 6:45 p.m. Once again the parade's the thing and this is what draws people into town. I don't think that we can stress the fact too much that the success of the parade will depend on you. Make sure now that your business or resort or what have you has a float in the parade. The carnival is sponsored every year by the Rotary Club of Haliburton as a fund-raising venture to help finance Rotary projects in the community. Their objective also is to provide some fun and entertainment for the many summer residents, visitors and year round residents. We hope the parade will give all those spectators a greater exposure to the facilities in the community. So come on out tonight and see the parade and later on take in the fun and entertainment at the fairgrounds and curling rink. We'll see you there.

We are certainly pleased to hear that our good friend Irene Moore of Minden, is back home following a stay in hospital. Irene, who writes a weekly column for our paper, Chatting with Irene, is feeling much better following her illness.

After an absence of eighteen months, Jim and David Kerr, now residing in Calgary, Alberta, are enjoying a nostalgic return to Kinnis Lake. They are renewing old acquaintances and revisiting favourite haunts in the Haliburton region. The Kerr boys will be the special guests of Dr. and Mrs. Cowan and Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie for a month.

Phone for Social Assistance

A committee from the Haliburton County Social Planning Council met last week to discuss the problems and possible solutions to coordinating the many social assistance bodies and agencies. The main problem was that many people requiring help just don't know who to contact, or if in fact there is someone to contact regarding their problem.

During the discussion, it was pointed out that many people are presently phoning the Canada Manpower Outreach Office in Haliburton for direction. Jayne and Suzanne have become conversant with the agencies and the services available and have in most cases been able to point the individuals in the right direction. With this in mind the Chamber, being the sponsor of the office, and the staff have agreed to provide this service on a regular basis. Representatives from all social services agencies and departments will be asked to work with this office to provide them with information and acquaint themselves with those that have problems under their jurisdiction.

If the response to this service is considered large, the Social Planning Council will be providing volunteers to carry the workload. After a year of operating in this manner, if the need was apparent, a grant may be obtained to assist in the establishment of a full-time central office to administer such a program.

If you, or someone you know in Haliburton County is in need of some form of social counselling or assistance, please call the Outreach Office between 9:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at 457-1316. If they can't help you they will be able to advise you of who can.

Community With a Heart

It should come as no surprise to those of us who have seen members of our community respond to others in need many times before that our community has a heart. At a recent meeting organized to provide information on the sponsoring of "Boat People", the son of the organizer of "Operation Lifeline" expressed surprise and sincere admiration that a community of our size would be sponsoring three, and possibly four families, while a city the size of Barrie had thus far committed themselves to only one.

Those organizing the sponsorships are not doing it for the recognition, but to fulfill a need. They deserve your support and if you are not part of one of the groups that are sponsoring, they have arranged for a central point at which you can offer your assistance whether it be goods, services, or money. They have advised us that this information will appear elsewhere in this newspaper.

What's New!

Fairfield Bay Cottages, a long standing land mark on highway 35 north of Minden has been purchased by Gareth and Catherine Kellett. Gareth is a teacher and principal of the school at Dorset, a job which of course he will continue to hold. Gareth anticipated expanding the spring and fall business to complement their existing capacity operation in the summer. Charles and Evelyn Jarolimek will enjoy their retirement by splitting their time between their cottage at Ironstone and their favourite spot in Panama City, Florida.

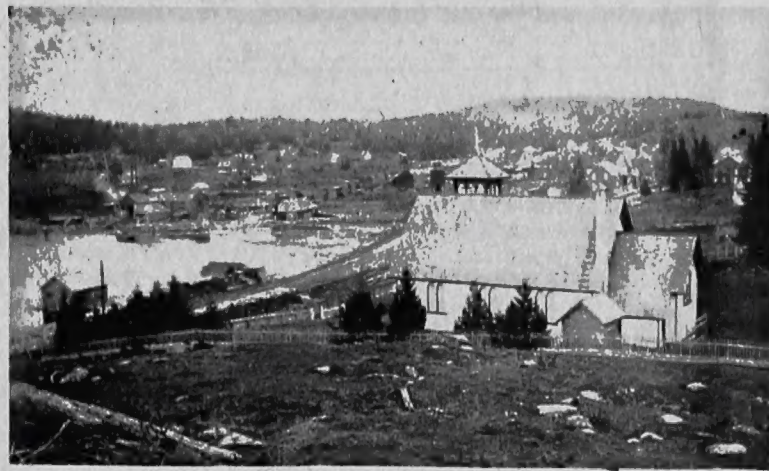

Hillcrest Haven which overlooks Green Lake beside Lakeview Golf Course has been purchased by Angeline Gignac and her son Mark. They have already made their presence evident with an extensive paint-up, clean-up campaign. Mark is a champion figure skater of considerable note and it is expected that both figure skating and hockey enthusiasts will be anxious to meet him and gain from his expertise. Frank and Iris Taylor will be enjoying a well deserved retirement in the West Guilford area.

Four Season Country Store, formerly Elliotts Store at Carnarvon came into existence back in June but it was not until last week that we managed to visit Fred and Nancy Chapple, the new proprietors. The major change they have made is to divide the meat department and lease it to Joe Hughes who formerly was with Welch's Store. Joe now operates as Rancher's Market in the Four Season's Country Store and provides the same excellent butcher service he has been known for for some time.

Haliburton Handymen is a brand new business which is being created by Donald Heaven. Don, who has had many years of experience with large construction firms in the city, envisages this firm as one which will service many cottagers with small improvements, maintenance work and winter surveillance. Don has cottaged here on Mirror Lake for some time and feels he knows well what the cottagers needs are.

Our sincere best wishes for a prosperous

Pic of the Past

The above photo taken at the turn of the century shows a great view of Haliburton from where Gerry Wood's home on Mountain Street is now located. Featured in the photo is St. George's Anglican Church before it was destroyed by fire. The present church was built on the same location. In the distance is the area where work will soon be starting on the new park on Head Lake. In years gone by, as you can see by this picture, a mill was in operation and piles of lumber can be seen in the mill yard. Thanks to the members of the Douglas family of Haliburton for submitting this photo.

Bill Smiley

It's a little like being an observer of the Fall of the Roman Empire.

That's how I feel as I read and hear the latest energy crisis news.

One of these days, in the not-distant future, the last drop of that black stuff is going to drop into the last receptacle. How then, brown hen?

Will we freeze in the dark? Well, a heck of a lot of red-blooded Canadians will need every bit of that red blood to avoid doing so.

It's not as though the hand-writing has not been on the wall. It's just that nobody has been looking at that particular wall. We've all been looking out our picture window, instead.

I've been thinking about it during a particularly busy week in which a dentist save one of my ancient teeth, a doctor gave me an allergy shot, and a barber removed some of my ancient white hair.

Needless to say, I drove my ancient car to each of these places. None of them is more than a ten-minute walk. On my way to one of them, I drove down to the dock, parked, and watched about three thousand boats trying to wiggle their way out of marinas, so that they could open her up and cut a swatch across the lake with their oil-burners.

At the doctor's, people were complaining because the air-conditioning wasn't working. The dentist used a high-speed electric drill in his air-conditioned office, with all the fluorescent lights on. The barber was sweating, turned up his air-conditioning, washing his hands in hot water, and switched on his electric clippers.

By George, I thought, it's going to be quite a change. I visualized the dentist pumping away with his old foot-powered drill. The doctor giving me a shot by flashlight, because there are no windows in the joint. The barber using the old hand-powered clippers and shaving my neck with cold water, in a steamy-hot barber shop.

It wouldn't bother me too much. I was brought up on wood stoves, coal-oil lamps, a block of ice in the refrigerator, and a coal-burning furnace.

But is sure would bother the doctor, the dentist and the barber, along with practically every human being in North America under the age of sixty.

It's going to be quite an auction sale, I thought, when that last drop of black stuff flows from the last spigot.

Listen to the auctioneer. "Lincoln Continental, 1982 model, like new. Tear out the insides and you have a grand out-door rec room for the kiddies. What am I bid? Do I hear thirty dollars?"

"Here's a real steal. A forty-foot cruiser with built-in cupboards, septic toilet, sleeps six. Get a teamster to tow it into your back yard and you have a dandy sleeping cabin for guests. Will somebody start the bidding at twelve dollars?"

"And there's another beauty. Three 1980 Thunderbirds, worth $23,000 the day they were bought. Cut the tops off, remove the wheels, and they'll make beautiful flowerbeds. Not ten dollars apiece, not even nine dollars each, but the three for $24.98."

"And here's today's super-special. She's only thirty-five years old and guaranteed to work day or night, not like those electric things that were always breaking down. An almost automatic dishwasher. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, the real thing. This little lady came on hard times. Her husband had a heating oil franchise. She's willing to wash your dishes like they've never been washed before. Only $300 a week."

And so on. Snowmobiles, aircraft. It's going to be a great day for the junk dealers. On the other hand, there's the bright side. Just as people today pay fabulous sums for junk furniture dug out of attics, the good folk of 2010 A.D. might go as high as $200 for an ancient, beautifully-furnished Cadillac or a fine specimen of four-burner electric stove with infra-red oven. They'd make nice conversation pieces.

Away back there, I failed to continue the analogy to the Roman Empire. But it's there. They had their bread and circuses as the count-down approached. Our arenas, like theirs, are packed solid with sweaty, sadistic spectators watching the gladiators. We don't have enough Christians left to throw to the lions. But we can always fire the coach, which is almost as good.

And we have something Romans didn't. We have an almost-instant view of disasters all over the world. So I guess mankind has made one giant step backward in the past 1500 years.

It looks as though the hand-in-hand waltz of the oil companies and the car manufacturers, which has lasted nearly half a century, is going to become, "Good Night, Ladies."

But the merry Walpurgisnacht of the western world continues its mad whirl as oil companies and airlines and car manufacturers and boat makers furiously advertise their wares. And the rest of us just as wildly rush out to buy them.

Of course, I don't mean a word of all this. Somehow, the human spirit, though at one of its lowest points in centuries, will survive and prevail. We'll find something.

But in the meantime, I'm going to sharpen my axe and get busy installing a wind-mill. See you in the bush lot.

Report from Queen's Park

by MPP John Eakins

Social scientists tell us that the population profile of Ontario is changing rapidly. There is a clear need to begin preparation for the assault of the maturing baby boom generation on the health-care system. In increasing numbers, the generation which once crowded the halls of schools and universities will be crowding into doctors' offices and hospitals. The first wave may hit maternity wards and children's hospitals as the women born during the baby boom enter their peak period of fertility. That will be followed in the late 1980s by a steady upward trend in medical expenses associated with aging.

My colleagues and I are committed to providing the highest quality of health care for the people of this province. In the view of medical experts today, it is in society's best interests to shift away from total reliance on institutional hospital care and move towards alternative forms of care in the community. However, the answer is not simply to close down hospital beds before sufficient alternative facilities - chronic-care hospitals, rehabilitation centres, or nursing homes - are in place.

You will remember that in 1976, the former Minister of Health announced a number of hospital closings, and an attempt was made to justify these closings on the basis of "regression analysis".

Opposition members fought the government on this issue in the Legislature, and the government was eventually forced by the courts to back down. Hospitals stayed open.

Now, we all have to contend with the problems raised by the government's bed allocation scheme.

Basically, there are three major faults with this proposal. First of all, the formula is applied across the province in an arbitrary way, and does not take into account varying community needs. Secondly, it is obvious that the government has no way of determining which hospitals are now providing an effective and efficient health care service to the community. In fact, those hospitals which have made a concerted effort to be efficient and reduce their costs are the very ones which are being penalized by the government. Thirdly, the Ministry of Health has demonstrated once again that, in discharging its primary duty to promote the health and well-being of the people of Ontario, it works in an unplanned and ad hoc fashion. In fact, one hospital - Metropolitan Hospital in Windsor - has contended that the bed closures conflict with this primary duty and are challenging the Minister in the Supreme Court.

Clearly, discussion of the province's health care system - and particularly hospital cutbacks - will continue. A Small Hospitals Conference is to be held in the fall. Hopefully something constructive will emerge from this.

The question of doctors opting out of the OHIP scheme is also causing serious concern.

Meanwhile, the Minister of Health continues to reassure us that government cost-cutting will not be allowed to jeopardize the health and welfare of Ontarians.

COUNTY ECHO SPORTS

The ambulance was called onto the ball diamond Monday night when the first injury of the season for the Haliburton ladies softball team was sustained by Sheila Elston. Sheila took a bad fall at second base, but, judging by the look on her face, all the attention she was getting made her laugh it off. Haliburton lost the game to West Guilford by a score of 9 to 7.

Curry Motors take Haliburton Lumber as Wednesday night game rained on

Well, for the first time this year, baseball action in the men's recreational league in Haliburton was rained on, causing the curtailment of one game, and cancelling the other.

In game #1 last Wednesday night, Curry Motors and Haliburton Lumber met on a rain-soaked field. The weather handicap didn't seem to help the last-place Lumber team, however, as they lost after four and a half innings by a score of 12 to 2.

Curry's struck hard and fast in the first inning, with hits and runs by Eric Martin, Mark Schell and Kevin Sisson. Pete Lymburner knifed a high ball into left field, and sent it over the fence for his first home run of the year.

Haliburton Lumber's Ken Lewis decreased the lead by a point when he was batted in through the efforts of Roger Bain. The second inning was free of runs, but as the thunder began echoing through the sky, so did the bats of Curry Motors in the third. Strong hitting by Schell, Sisson and Art Dawson resulted in an additional three runs for Curry's.

But things went from bad to worse for the Lumber team when, in the fourth inning, Curry Motors rallied through the entire team line-up to score five runs, increasing the huge lead to 12. Singles were notched by Martin, John Wilson, Schell, Lymburner, Dawson, Bob Nicholl and Norm Greenfield, with all of the above except Nicholl and Dawson tagging up at home plate.

Lewis again scored for Haliburton Lumber in the bottom of the fourth, assisted by a hit from Jim Scheffee. But the fastest running of the game came when a sudden downpour cleared the field of both players and spectators. The game went the required innings for the Curry win.

The game between the Haliburton Legion and LaRue Motors was rained out completely. That game will be played on Thursday, August 9, the day after the official regular season ends for the league.

And speaking of playoffs, the finals are slated to get underway on August 15. All four teams will participate in the finals, with one game being played between the semi-finalists until two teams are eliminated. The finalists will play the best two out of three games, and the winning team will be the recipients of the first Dawson trophy. A year-end dance for players and friends is currently being planned, and organizers are hoping to have it for September 1, though nothing has been confirmed yet.

Haliburton clinches first in Ladies Softball League

by Helen Burk

Haliburton clinched first place last week with two wins over the Snowdon team.

Monday night saw quite a game played in West Guilford at the end of seven innings. West Guilford and Carnarvon were tied 7-7. Carnarvon scored one run in the top of the eighth to win the game 8-7. Marg Darby was the winning pitcher while Nancy Brinks took the loss.

West Guilford bounced back Tuesday night, defeating Minden 20-8. Andrea Burk was the losing pitcher while Nancy Brinks took the win.

Hot Weather Musings From a Winter Pen

We've been reading in the local papers in recent weeks the happy reports of successful carnivals and other mid-summer events along with the glad tidings that lodges and resorts are once again doing a landoffice business. And that's good. But it won't be long, unfortunately, until enthusiasm will begin to wane like the warm weather, spirits will fall with the autumn leaves, and the good business folk in our northern communities will don the long faces they reserve for fall. And well they might. For they have as usual, apparently, totally forgotten to use the golden opportunity of summer to promote the fact that Haliburton has become a resort area of some note in the winter months as well. We haven't seen a single sentence devoted to the pleasures of winter in the last three months.

Many of our summer visitors are still of the belief that those of us who live "up here" quietly fold our tents in the fall and slip away to warmer climates. Admitted, a few of us do, but a growing number look forward to winter for that's when we get a chance to kick up our heels and enjoy our Highlands life to the full.

So let's tell them about winter. Let's tell them about the great opportunities for snowmobiling fun, and cross-country skiing, and winter carnivals, and ice-fishing. And let's tell them while they are here, while they're enjoying our summer facilities, and before they have made reservations for their annual flight to Florida. It just might be that a few summer visitors could be induced to turn north this winter instead of south.

I wonder if there is one enterprising tourist operator who has thought to set up a winter vacation display at his place of business. Perhaps a snowmobile or two, and cross-country skis, mounted on a styrofoam pad with a backdrop of fun photographs, brochures and maps to gain the interest of his summer patrons. If there is one, I'd like to hear from him. The first to call (457-1658) and to follow up with a good black and white photo of the display will get a free write-up in a snowmobile magazine.

New hunters will face tougher exams beginning today, MNR announces

New hunters will face a stiffer test when they sit down to write their hunting licence examination this fall, Ontario Minister of Natural Resources, James Auld, said recently.

The Ministry is implementing a revised examination on August 1.

The new examination contains 60 multiple choice questions and places greater emphasis on hunting ethics, wildlife management, wildlife identification, hunter-landowner relations and bow hunting, Auld said.

All first time hunters and those unable to prove they have hunted before must pass the hunting licence examination. Applicants under 20 years of age must first complete the Ministry's training program. The minimum enrolment age is 15 years, with the written consent of both parents or guardian.

Applicants must pass the written portion of the examination before attempting the practical portion. In the practical part of the test, the individual must be able to handle firearms safely and skillfully and also answer questions about muzzle loaders or archery equipment.

Successful applicants are issued a certificate which enables them to purchase a provincial hunting licence.

Auld said the 22 year old hunter safety program, which has trained close to half a million hunters, has helped reduce the number of hunting accidents from a total of 154 in 1960, including 34 fatalities, to 68 in 1978, only eight of which were fatal.

"With the assistance of the many excellent and well qualified volunteer instructors who conduct the courses, hunting is becoming one of the safest forms of outdoor recreation in Ontario," the minister said.

The Ministry proposes to make additional changes during the next five years to further upgrade the requirements for obtaining provincial hunting licences and to develop an even more comprehensive hunter education program.

With two schools underway in the county, the sport may catch on

Welcome the world of windsurfing

by Joe Banks

The sport itself has not become fantastically popular in Haliburton County yet, but a growing number of people across Canada are turning to windsurfing as a new form of water recreation.

Interest in the county could grow though, as Jiri Spirk, a Peterborough sailing veteran, and his wife Hana, introduce the exciting sport to local people through the Haliburton School of Fine Arts. The course started on July 20 and will run until August 3.

As well, Windsurfing International has started a certified windsurfing school at Haliburton Lodge last weekend. The school features a certified instructor from California, and evidence that windsurfing may catch on in the county came across on Saturday afternoon when the school taught its first lesson here for the summer, drawing a large crowd for its debut. The school will be teaching lessons until October throughout the week at Wig-a-mog Inn and at a camp in Wilberforce. It will run most of the summer, but Spirk's lessons will only be running for a limited time during the season.

'It requires a lot of concentration'

As owner and operator of the Peterborough Sailing School, Spirk's true passion is boat sailing, though he concedes that the relatively new sport of windsurfing "is very exciting - especially when you get a 30 mile-per-hour wind at your back."

The sport combines the physical agility of surfing and the precision and concentration of sailing. A sail similar to that of any small wind-driven craft, is attached to a larger-than-normal surfboard, and the surfer simply stands on the board, balancing and steering by hanging on to a bracket attached to the sail. Unlike regular surfing, where the surfer steers with his weight, the windsurfer guides the craft by manipulating the sail itself.

"It requires a lot of concentration," says Spirk. "It takes about three times (lessons) before your mind can get everything together." In fact, windsurfing is more difficult to learn than sailing; once you make a mistake (windsurfing), you end up in the water.

Windsurfing has become a multi-million dollar business in Europe, Spirk says, and may eventually do so in Canada. There are over 90 different makes of windsurfers throughout the world, and the best boards still come from the place where the sport originated; California.

Windsurfing's very uniqueness is what makes it attractive. As in many other sports, challenge plays a large part in the degree of enjoyment, and learning how to windsurf is much like learning how to ride a bicycle.

"You jump on and you go," Spirk says, and after the initial fear is over, windsurfing becomes "a never ending game" to unite the weight of the body and the force of the wind. When that's accomplished, the sensation, according to Spirk, is like no other.

"You forget everything, and all your thoughts have turned to concentration."

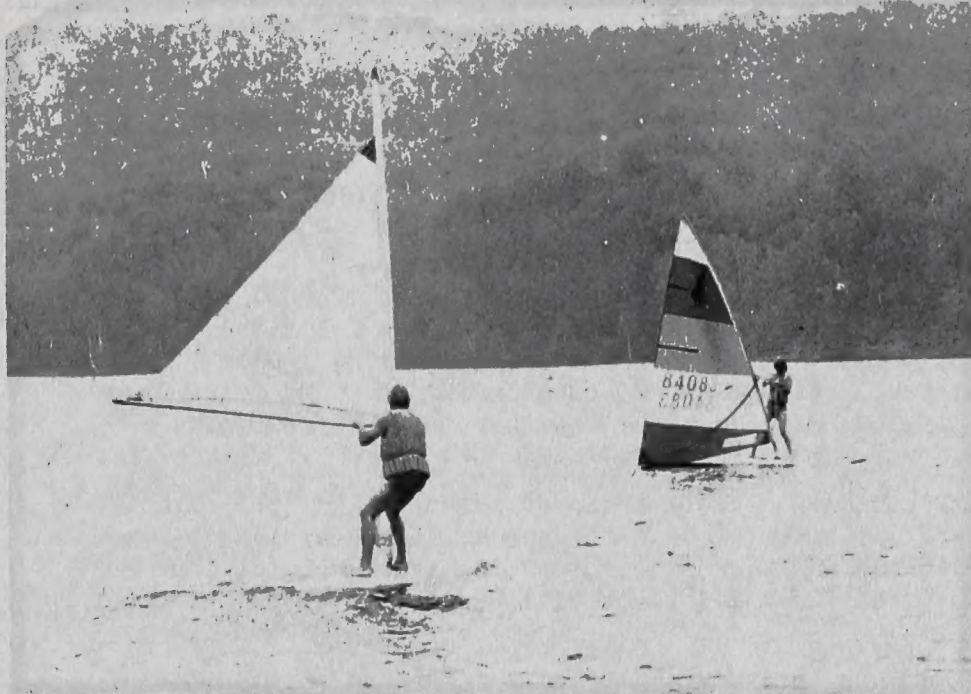

Besides its mentally and physically pleasing characteristics, windsurfing has definite advantages over other forms of water sports. As gas shortages and high prices become the bane of power boat users, an increasing number of recreationists are taking a second look at windsurfing as an alternative to waterskiing and pleasure boating.

Spirk feels, however, that there will always be a clique who will stick to the noise and the speed of power boats. "Not everybody wants to sail, because in a sailboat or windsurfer, it's you and your craft against everything."

And it's not as if sailing and windsurfing will compete for popularity against each other, for both sports require separate skills and equipment, though both rely on the wind and water for movement. They also require different degrees of physical fitness.

"A windsurfer can go out for maybe an hour, if he's good at it. But sailing, you can do for a whole day if you want to, and you're in a bit more comfortable position." And as the involvement in either sailing sport increases, so does the excitement people get from it. Having tried both sailing and windsurfing, Spirk can only say that the sports have one very common element.

"Both sports are really healthy."

A sport different from, but not unlike, sailing

Another big parade gets underway tonight in Haliburton to start off the Haliburton Rotary Carnival. The theme this year is "Year of the Child", and the parade is scheduled to start at Rotary Park at 6:45 p.m.

This Saturday is the big dance at Wilberforce featuring "The Family Brown" who are making the Ottawa Valley famous. Advance tickets are available at both the Chamber Office and Caboose Information Centre among other places. Don't miss this one!

The whole county gets into the act in Minden on Saturday, August 11 with the County Fair parade. This event is intended to showcase as much as possible the entire business community, along with bands, clowns, horses, wagons and an assortment of agricultural floats. This parade starts at 12 noon from the lot adjacent to Wrightman Realty and concludes at the fair grounds. It officially opens our annual County Fair which continues throughout the weekend. See you there!

NOTICE OF APPLICATION The Ontario Municipal Board by The Corporation of the United Townships of Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn, Bruton, Havelock, Eyre and Clyde for approval of a by-law to regulate land use passed pursuant to Section 35 of the The Planning Act.

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the United Townships of Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn, Bruton, Havelock, Eyre and Clyde intends to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 35 of The Planning Act for approval of By-law No. 79-36 passed on the 28th day of June, 1979. A copy of a note giving an explanation of the purpose and effect of the By-law and stating the lands affected thereby is furnished herewith.

COPIES of By-law No. 79-36 are available at the Municipal Office in the Village of Haliburton. The Municipal Office will be open between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. (EDT) Monday through Friday and between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. (EDT) Saturday until August 23, 1979, so that persons who are interested may read and review By-law No. 79-36.

ANY PERSON INTERESTED MAY, within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this notice, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the United Townships of Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn, Bruton, Havelock, Eyre and Clyde notice of objection to approval of the said By-law or part thereof giving details of all or the portion of the By-law to which you object and detailed reasons therefor, and shall indicate that if a hearing is held the objector or an agent will attend at the hearing to support the objection.

ANY PERSON wishing to support the application for approval of the By-law may within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this notice send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the United Townships of Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn, Bruton, Havelock, Eyre and Clyde notice of his support of approval of the said By-law together with a request for notice of any hearing that may be held giving also the name and address to which such notice should be given.

THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD may approve of the said By-law but before doing so it may appoint a time and place when any objection to the By-law will be considered. Notice of any hearing that may be held will be given only to persons who have filed an objection or notice of support and who have left with or delivered to the Clerk undersigned, the address to which notice of hearing is to be sent and, similarly, to any person who has filed a request for a change in the provisions of the By-law.

THE LAST DATE FOR FILING OBJECTIONS WILL BE August 23, 1979.

DATED at the Village of Haliburton this 1st day of August, 1979.

THE CORPORATION OF THE
MUNICIPALITY OF DYSART ET AL
EXPLANATORY NOTE TO BY-LAW NO. 79-36

On July 11, 1977, Council enacted By-law No. 77-32 (a comprehensive Zoning By-law). Subsequently, on August 4, 1977, the By-law was circulated in accordance with the Revised Rules of Procedure of the Ontario Municipal Board in order to notify all necessary persons and agencies of the Municipality's intent to ask the O.M.B. for approval of the Zoning By-law and to give those persons and agencies the opportunity of notifying the Municipality of any objections they may have. Subsequent to that circulation, the Municipality received a number of letters expressing objection to By-law No. 77-32. After careful consideration of the objections, Council has decided to amend the Zoning By-law to resolve some of the objections and, at the same time, to metricate the Zoning By-law in accordance with The Metric Conversion Statute Law Amendment Act, 1978. Rather than make numerous individual amendments to the Zoning By-law to do these changes, Council has decided to make one comprehensive Zoning Amendment. By this procedure the Municipality will be able to more easily administer its Zoning By-law. The Municipality requested and received from the O.M.B. (by letter dated April 2, 1979) direction as to how notification was to be given of the Municipality's intent to apply for approval of the comprehensive Zoning Amendment described above. The O.M.B. directed that an Explanatory Note of the proposed Zoning Amendment be sent to all specific objectors and ratepayer organizations, be published in the local press and be posted in public places.

The purpose of this By-law No. 79-36 is to amend the Zoning By-law to resolve objections, to consolidate within it all zoning by-laws for individual subdivisions approved by the Ontario Municipal Board since the enactment of By-law No. 77-32 and to metricate it. The effect of By-law No. 79-36 is to repeal all of By-law No. 77-32, as amended, with the exception of the Approval Section, and to replace this with a single Zoning Amendment containing all the changes Council has decided to make to the Zoning By-law. The following is a summary of those changes:

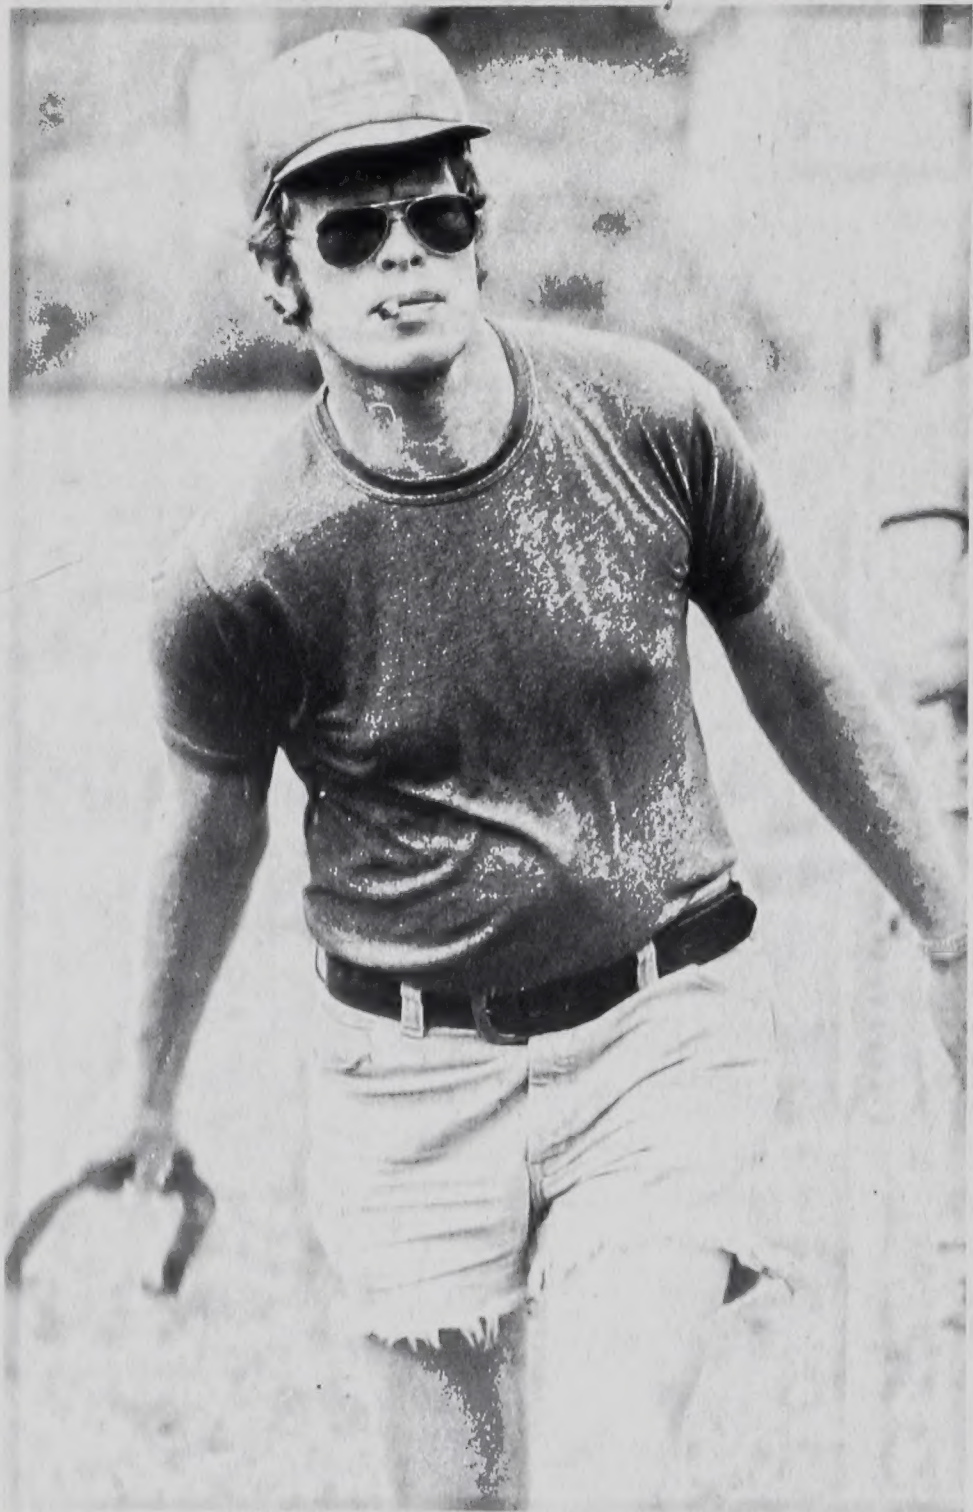

- (1) All units of measurement have been metricated, unless otherwise specified below, in such a manner as to
 - (a) remain within 5% of the original unit used; and
 - (b) become less restrictive (i.e., maxima have been increased and minima have been decreased).
- (2) Section 2 has been rearranged and retitled under Sections 1(4) and 4(3) of By-law No. 79-36. Section 1(4)(a) describes each Zone Map by geographic area and number. Section 4(3), containing the information on determining zone boundaries, has also been subsectioned for greater clarity.
- (3) Section 3, dealing with the interpretation of certain words, has been rearranged and retitled under Sections 1(3)(a), (b) and (c) of By-law No. 79-36, and subsectioned for greater clarity.
- (4) By-law No. 79-36 advances, by two, the section numbers of Sections 4 through 17 inclusive and advances, by one, the section numbers of Sections 18 through 23 inclusive as a result of the rearrangement of Sections 2 and 3 described above.
- (5) The definition of "ACCESSORY" has been deleted and incorporated into specific definitions of "ACCESSORY BUILDING" and "ACCESSORY USE", distinguishing them from "MAIN BUILDING" and "MAIN USE", which definitions are added.
- (6) The definition of "AIRSTRIPE, PRIVATE" has been deleted. It is no longer listed as a permitted use in any zone.
- (7) The definitions of "ALTER", "GRAVEL PIT" and "STONE QUARRY" have been rearranged for greater clarity.
- (8) A number of cross-references have been added to the Definitions Section to make finding specific definitions easier, (e.g., Section 2(11) of By-law No. 79-36 says "APARTMENT DWELLING HOUSE (See: DWELLING HOUSE)". This has affected the numbering of the subsections within the Definitions Section.
- (9) The definition of "BUILDING BY-LAW" has been changed to make reference to The Ontario Building Code Act, 1974.
- (10) Definitions of "BUILDING PERMIT", "BUILDING SEPARATION", "COURT", "DUAL GARAGE", "PLANTING STRIP WIDTH", "WAYSIDE PIT" and "ZONE PROVISIONS" have been added.
- (11) The definition of "CAMP LOT" has been revised to be more general in application.
- (12) The definition of "SEASONAL DWELLING HOUSE" has been revised to be similar to the definition recently successfully defended before the Supreme Court.
- (13) The definition of "PRIVATE CABIN" has been rearranged and set off on its own. Section 5(16) "PRIVATE CABIN", has been deleted and its provisions placed in appropriate locations, either in the Definitions' or in the Zones' Sections.
- (14) The definition of "ESTABLISHED BUILDING LINE" has been changed from 5 or more lots within a 1,000-foot strip of land to 3 or more lots within a 200.0-metre (656.17-foot) strip of land.
- (15) The definitions of "HOME INDUSTRY", "HOME OCCUPATION" and "RURAL HOME OCCUPATION" have been revised, rearranged and retitled to "HOME INDUSTRY", "HOME OCCUPATION" and "HOME PROFESSION".

- (16) The definitions of "INTERIOR LOT", "STANDARD WATERFRONT LOT", "THROUGH LOT" and "THROUGH WATERFRONT LOT" have been revised to clarify that any lot with water access will be considered a waterfront lot. Likewise, the definition of "LOT FRONTAGE" has been revised to clarify that the shoreline is the line to be used to determine lot frontage and the definition of "WATER FRONTAGE" has been deleted.
- (17) The definition of "SIDE LOT LINE" has been rearranged and retitled to distinguish between exterior and interior side lot lines, to make explicit the consideration of a side lot line abutting a rear lot line as a rear lot line and to provide that a lot with more than 4 lot lines would have more than one rear lot line.
- (18) The definition of "LOT DEPTH" has been revised to take into account situations where there may be no rear lot line or more than one rear lot line.
- (19) The definition of "NON-CONFORMING" and the provisions for "NON-CONFORMING USES" have been rearranged and retitled in order to clarify the distinction between uses which may not conform to uses permitted by the Zoning By-law and buildings, structures or lots which may not comply with the zone provisions required by the Zoning By-law.
- (20) The definition of "SHORELINE" has been revised to clarify that the shoreline could be a boundary with an original shore road allowance.
- (21) The definition of "SIGHT TRIANGLE" has been revised to take into account all manner of lots on which there may be a sight triangle.
- (22) The definition of "STREET" has been revised to clarify that an original shore road allowance is not a street.
- (23) The definition of "LOT COVERAGE" has been rearranged and retitled "BUILDING AREA" and "BUILDING ENVELOPE". The provisions of Sections 5(24)(a), (b) and (c) have been incorporated into the latter definition. The distance unenclosed porches, balconies, steps or fire escapes may encroach into the minimum setback has been increased from 5 feet to 3.0 metres (9.84 feet).
- (24) The definition of "HEIGHT" has been retitled "BUILDING HEIGHT".
- (25) The definition of "WATER SETBACK" has been revised to take into account the changes noted in (23) above.
- (26) The definitions of "FRONT YARD DEPTH", "SIDE YARD WIDTH", "REAR YARD DEPTH" and "REQUIRED YARD" have been rearranged and retitled "FRONT, EXTERIOR AND INTERIOR SIDE AND REAR BUILDING SETBACK" to take into account the changes noted in (23) above and to clarify that the provision relates to the required minimum "setback" or distance from a building to a lot line.
- (27) The definition of "SETBACK" has been revised and retitled "STREET SETBACK" to clearly separate it from "BUILDING SETBACK" and to clarify its being a minimum requirement. Section 5(19) SETBACK has been revised to take this change into account.
- (28) Section 5(1) ACCESSORY USES has been revised to place all of the provisions on Accessory uses relating to Residential zones into Residential Zones' Sections and to take into account the definition changes noted above. Because of the use of the term "building envelope", provisions dealing with the location of some accessory uses and "attached accessory buildings" have been deleted as being duplicative. In addition, a provision has been added requiring erection of a main building or structure before an accessory building or structure.
- (29) Sections 5(3)(a), 5(4) EXTERNAL BUILDING MATERIALS, 5(17)(b) and 5(17)(d) have been deleted.
- (30) Section 5(7) GRAVEL PITS AND STONE QUARRIES has been revised to take into account the changes in definitions described above.
- (31) Sections 5(8) HOME INDUSTRIES, 5(9) HOME OCCUPATIONS, and 5(18) RURAL HOME OCCUPATIONS have been rearranged and retitled to take into account the changes in definitions described in (15) above, to provide greater clarity and to delete redundant or unenforceable clauses.
- (32) Section 5(10) LOADING SPACE REGULATIONS, Section 5(14) PARKING AREA REGULATIONS and Section 5(15) PLANTING STRIPS have been revised to place the requirements for the provision of such into the appropriate Zones' Sections of the Zoning By-law, to remove redundancies and unenforceable provisions and to restrict rather than permit.
- (33) Section 5(11) LOT DEVELOPMENT REQUIREMENTS has been rearranged, retitled and sectionalized as follows:
 - (a) Sections 5(11)(a) and (b) have been set up as Section 3(2), ACCESS REGULATIONS. The requirements for access have been revised to restrict development on non-waterfront lots to those lots which abut an improved street or a private right-of-way which has access to an improved street. Reference to requiring a driveway has been deleted.
 - (b) Sections 5(11)(c) and (d) have been rearranged and retitled as Sections 3(12), LOTS CONTAINING MORE THAN ONE USE, and 3(13), LOTS DIVIDED INTO MORE THAN ONE ZONE. As well, the requirements have been clarified. The creation of these new subsections has resulted in the renumbering of the subsections of the General Provisions Section.
 - (c) Section 5(11)(e) has been rearranged to place the definition parts into a definition for "EXISTING LOT" and the regulatory parts into the Section on non-complying lots described in (19) above. The definition of existing lot is devised to include not only lots of record in the Registry or Land Titles Office, but also the parts, parcels and lots shown on the Plans comprising Harcourt Park.
- (34) Section 5(13) NOXIOUS USES has been rearranged and retitled to place the definition parts into a definition for "NOXIOUS USES" and to utilize the term "OBNOXIOUS" so as to not be confused with the term "NOXIOUS".
- (35) Section 5(23) WATER SETBACKS has been revised to exempt a marina, but not a boathouse, from the water setback requirement.
- (36) Section 5(24)(d) BUILDING IN BUILT-UP AREA has been rearranged and retitled as a Section called ESTABLISHED BUILDING LINE.
- (37) Section 6(1) ZONE CLASSIFICATION has been rearranged for greater clarity and revised to clearly indicate the division of zones into groups and to add a new Neighbourhood Commercial zone.
- (38) That portion of Section 6(2) ZONE SYMBOLS dealing with the zoning of Eyre Township has been set out in a separate Section.
- (39) Section 6(3) ZONE PROVISIONS has been rewritten for greater clarity.
- (40) Section 6(5) BUILDING, STRUCTURE AND USE CLASSIFICATION has been moved to become part of Section 1(3) INTERPRETATION.
- (41) The uses permitted in each Zone, the titles of all Zone Provisions and those matters which are dealt with in the Zone Provisions Sections have been revised to take into account all the changes described above and for greater clarity.
- (42) Sections 8(2)(e), 9(2)(f) and 10(2)(f) have been revised to reduce the minimum required interior side yard widths (now interior side building setbacks) in the RR, SR1 and SR2 zones from 25 feet to 4.5 metres (14.76 feet).

- (43) Sections 9(1)(a) and 10(1)(a) have been revised to permit as uses in the SR1 and SR2 zones a single-family dwelling house, provided that a Certificate of Occupancy is issued by the Council subsequent to the date of passing of the Zoning By-law, a home occupation and a home profession.
- (44) A Special SR2-1 zone has been introduced to deal with the Harcourt Park area in Harcourt Township. The uses permitted and provisions required in the SR2-1 zone are the same as those in the SR2 zone, except that permanent single-family dwelling houses are not permitted, the minimum required lot frontage is 30.0 metres (98.43 feet) and a maximum of 610 seasonal dwelling houses is established for all SR2-1 zones.
- (45) Section 11(2)(e)(ii) has been revised to reduce the minimum required interior side yard width (now interior side building setback) on lots served by a sanitary sewer system in the R1 zone from 10 feet on one side and 6 feet on the other side to 1.5 metres (4.92 feet).
- (46) Section 12(4)(b) has been revised to reduce the minimum required lot frontage in the R2-1 zone from 140 feet to 39.5 metres (129.59 feet).
- (47) A Special R2-2 zone has been introduced to establish a zone wherein a group home may be permitted. "GROUP HOME" has been defined as a licensed dwelling house where a limited number of unrelated persons live under appropriate supervision. The provisions required in the R2-2 zone are suitable to permit the use of a certain parcel of land (See (56)(b)(v) below) for a group home.
- (48) A special R2-3 zone has been introduced with special provisions to allow the use of a certain parcel of land (See (56)(b)(vi) below) for an apartment building (a 4-plex).
- (49) Sections 15(2)(i), 16(2)(1), 17(2)(1) and 22(2)(a) have been rearranged to place definitions for "ANGLE OF DIVERGENCE", "BASAL AREA" and "SLASH" into the Definitions Section.
- (50) The CT-2 zone has been deleted as no lands are any longer zoned to permit a private airstrip. The CT-3 zone assumes the CT-2 zone symbol.
- (51) A new CT-3 zone has been introduced to permit a private park, tourist camp, rental cabins and accessory uses thereto provided that all the CT zone provisions are complied with except for the minimum lot area, which is established as 4.0 hectares (9.88 acres).
- (52) A Neighbourhood Commercial (CN) zone has been introduced to permit a neighbourhood store and a dwelling unit in a Non-Residential building in accordance with appropriate zone provisions.
- (53) Section 22 has been revised to:
- delete "an existing seasonal dwelling house" and add "a seasonal dwelling house" and "a ski area" to the list of uses permitted in the RU zone;
 - add provisions that
 - permit the use of any Residential lot granted consent by the Land Division Committee in the RU zone for a single-family dwelling house if the provisions of the RR zone are satisfied, and
 - prohibit mobile homes within 60.0 metres (196.85 feet) of any shoreline; and
 - introduce an RU-1 zone to permit a seasonal dwelling house provided that all RU zone provisions are complied with except for the minimum lot area, which is established as 1,800.0 square metres (19,375 square feet) and the minimum lot frontage, which is established as 250.0 metres (820.21 feet).
- (54) Section 23(6) INSPECTIONS is revised to require a search warrant when the consent of the occupant is not available to the Zoning Administrator when he inspects residential premises.
- (55) Section 23(10) dealing with the repeal of by-laws enacted before By-law No. 77-32 is set up as its own Section.
- (56) All the Zone Maps are deleted and replaced with new Zone Maps. The effect of this is to rezone as follows:
- EAGLE LAKE AREA:
 - Pt. Lot 29, Con. IV - RU to SR1
 - Pt. Lot 29, Con. III - RU to RR

Horseshoe Days: Skills, smiles and fun

Despite being almost rained out, the Gooderham Horseshoe Days carnival which took place last weekend drew large crowds and ended up becoming a successful event.

An added unexpected feature of this year's festival was a parade, organized by the township's day camp personnel, and later increased in size with the addition of floats by some local organizations. A demolition derby was also held for the first time in the carnival's history this year, and drew at least 500 spectators. As well, horseshoers from all over Ontario gathered to compete for prize money and trophies in the main event. Rides, concessions, dances, a talent contest and log sawing and nail driving contests helped to round the weekend out.

Things got underway following the event's official opening on Saturday afternoon, after the parade down main street in Gooderham. The horseshoe tournament began after some threats of rain, but went ahead without a hitch. Ten teams (20 men) entered the event and vied for trophies and prize money.

Winners and runners-up in the competitions are as follows: first, Roy McLaughlin of Blackstock, and his partner Don Rowe of Peterborough; second, Dick Jewell of Cambridge and his partner Frank Shewring of Oshawa; and third, Ron Rowe of Peterborough and his partner, Doug James of Bowmanville. Prize money awarded was $20 for first place, $14 for second place and $10 for third.

Trophies were also presented.

The excitement spilled over onto Sunday when the Glamorgan Fire Department held its first demolition derby. Nearly 15 cars, mostly from the Glamorgan area, entered the competitions. There were three heats this year, with the feature derby held at the end. For the ladies, a 'powder puff' derby was held following the men's competitions.

After the dust and oil smoke cleared, Roger Billings of Gooderham drove his beaten auto from the ring as the winner. Ron Winder, also of Gooderham, was runner-up. In the powder-puff competitions, Miriam Oldham of Gooderham came first, while Colleen Oldham of Mount Albert placed second.

Dale Oldham was the winner of the best decorated car.

Finals in the highly entertaining talent contest were held Sunday as well, carrying over from Saturday. In the under 18 class, little nine-year old Shannon Mintz stepped danced her way to first place, while Lisa Teatro, 13, of Haliburton, took second place with her singing.

In the 19 and over class, Bradley Riel came first as a result of his fine singing, and Sharon Beck of Toronto placed second. Sharon sang as

Browndale Camp: A place where family and friendship is a key

It provides an outdoors atmosphere for disturbed children

Browndale Camp is far from any ordinary summer camp. It's much more. Children who attend Browndale receive - and give - knowledge and friendship as members of a family would. And that's precisely what the camp's organizers had in mind when Browndale came into being.

Started in 1966 by Browndale Ontario, a treatment centre for disturbed children, the camp has provided an outdoors atmosphere for children whose parents "didn't receive enough support from the community," according to camp director, Bastien Depeuter. Financed by the Ontario Ministry of Child Care Services, Browndale's children are between five and 18 years of age. They live in small "family" groups of four, five or six homes in the Barrie, Newmarket, Midland, North Bay, Thunder Bay, Peterborough and Haliburton areas of Ontario.

"The summer wilderness camping program brings all the Browndale families together. Camping in regional sites in their normal family groups: they share in the daily tasks and joy of living in the outdoors," says Depeuter.

What makes Browndale unique is its "wilderness style" of camping. Most of the children spend about five weeks at Browndale, and during that time, they will live in tents, eat in structures constructed by themselves, and generally become a member of a miniature community. But that doesn't mean the kids stop having fun. Instructions in sailing, swimming, canoeing, drama and arts and crafts, as well as dances for teenagers and a popular regular evening campfire sing-song make life at Browndale something special for disturbed children.

Each "home" or campsite where the children stay during the summer months, has three child care workers designated as therapeutic parents. They help create a normal, safe environment in which the children can grow and learn in a close relationship with others who care for them.

"It's not like a teacher-child relationship," Depeuter says. "It's more like a mama and papa situation, with maybe a big sister." In some instances, Browndale has recruited grandparents to provide an extra family dimension to the community situation. But the parents, usually the source of anxieties and problems for both themselves and the child, are not forgotten.

"Not only do we relate the kids as a family, but we relate the parents to the situation also," says Depeuter. Several parents have spent holidays at Browndale, under the encouragement of the camp planners. The flexibility of this program provides parents and the child with the option of "backing off" at any time, with both realizing the other is still close at hand.

'If you label a child disturbed, they will act disturbed'

The main thrust of the camp, and indeed the entire Browndale program, is to return the child to his or her natural parents as soon as possible. The ultimate goal, says Depeuter, is to have the child go back into society and "be able to cope with the community like any normal child."

Does it work? In a study done by researchers recently, results showed that 85 to 90 percent of all Browndale children, generally following a two-year program, "graduated", that is, were ready to return to society. "The other 10 or 15 percent needed special care or lifestyle," says Depeuter. "Compared to a hospital, it's just the reverse."

He readily admits that he dislikes hospitals or institutions where children are confined, or receive a very stringent and "special" kind of care. "If you label someone as a criminal, they'll be a criminal. If you label a child disturbed, they will act disturbed."

And unlike institutions, the camp is run by a council, as opposed to any one person. It consists of 10 area coordinators who make the day to day decisions the camp is planned around. "Ten heads are better than one," Depeuter jokingly says.

But perhaps the best element of Browndale Camp is its sharing between family members, and its ability to give children the chance to build a home and a lifestyle themselves, and the amount of professional workers dedicated to its cause. These elements are what make a good family; the Browndale family.

Old costumes, a giant parade and exciting arm wrestling were highlights at the Rotary Carnival

The grand old times return to Minden

It was just like old times. There they were, dressed in their old-fashioned costumes, walking down the middle of main street in Minden. People waved to them, they waved back, and just about everyone had a smile on their face.

The Minden Rotary parade, with the theme of 'Pioneer Days', had gone through town again. And with it, the opening of one of the most successful carnivals the service club has ever put on.

It all started on Wednesday, when several floats from throughout the area paraded down the main street to the fair grounds in one of the largest parades Minden has ever seen. But that wasn't all.

The community centre became a hive of activity both Wednesday and Thursday nights, where the Carmen Peters band and the Misty River Ramblers provided the live entertainment. Games and booths were set up in the community centre, and it seemed the busiest was the 'grocery game' stand. "At 50 cents for three throws, it sure beats the cost of groceries," one carnival-goer commented. "Of course, at the cost of groceries nowadays, you're taking a chance every time you go to the store." A midway kept the kids, young and old alike, entertained during the two days of festivity.

Minden businesses had their wares in front of their shops, and craft displays, with the craftspeople wearing pioneer costumes, which provided an interesting feature during the carnival.

But the highlight, besides the parade, came on Thursday night when world championship invitational arm wrestling was featured. The competitions were fierce, and several muscles were sore, but when it was all over, Jim Keetch of Horseshoe Lake emerged as the winner in the 200 lb. and over class. John Buchanan grunted his way to first place in the 175 to 200 lb. class, and Steve (Tree) Moran, in a fine display of arm wrestling, downed his opponent to take first place in the under 175 lb. class. A special ladies class was held at the end of the competitions, with Mrs. Bernie Davis winning the event.

The parade winners and prize winners are as follows: The grand champion prize was awarded to Silver Birches Resort for their entertaining float, and the commercial champion prize went to Cox's Apparel.

The best group or camp champion award was awarded to Kilcoo Camp. Honourable mentions go to the Toronto Dominion Bank, the Hospitality Inn, Hyland Crest Senior Citizens, and the Minden Red & White. M. Daniel won the prize as the best dressed man. Mr. Daniel rode on the Hyland Crest float.

The ice-cream boys from Kawartha Dairy walked away with the best dressed boys award, while the best decorated bicycles prize was awarded to Jay and Gregg Hewitt.

The Minden Rotary Club wish to thank the judges of the parade, namely Gloria and Julie Archie, Molly MacKenzie and special thanks to Carling-O'Keefe who helped out for an all-around good time!

Monday we began the week with a kick at fun and fitness. Even though the weather was hot and sticky, everyone enjoyed their morning exercising to music.

Later in the afternoon, the ladies made their way downstairs to work on their projects in crafts. Lemonade, tea and goodies were served after a busy afternoon. Monday evening, two very interesting movies were shown in the auditorium. The first film was called 'New Zealand - My Way'. It gave us a look at this unique country, showing us their quaint little homes and beautiful countryside. There is a great fishing industry there, and New Zealand is noted for their sheep. It is the home of the International Sheep Shearing contests. The scenery was breath-taking as we were taken on a tour through the mountains. This was a most interesting and colourful movie.

'Safe Boating is Fun' told us all about the do's and don'ts of boating. We learned how to operate and sit in a boat properly. It told us how to react in an emergency, and the proper equipment to use. The message given was to use common sense in safe boating. This movie was most informative, and those who watched seemed to enjoy it very much.

Rev. Don Nicholson of the United Church in Haliburton was at Hyland Crest to lead worship in the chapel on Tuesday morning.

After lunch, several residents gathered in the lounge to welcome a very special guest. Rose Darling, all the way from England, accompanied by Fred Ballard, sang and entertained us. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed their music, and look forward to having both back again sometime.

Wednesday was a very busy day, as we had to prepare the float for the carnival parade. The rain held off until we had everything decorated and ready to go. Unfortunately, about an hour before the parade, we had a downpour which nearly ruined all our efforts. However, we repaired some of the damage, and according to some of the spectators, our float looked pretty good. Our theme was based on the International Year of the Child, and uniting seniors and children. Irene Burns and Ralph Daniel, dressed in pioneer fashion, portrayed the seniors while Kiera Connelly and Dale English also dressed in old-fashioned attire, portraying the children. These people presented a beautiful picture in the gazebo designed and constructed by Ken Fielding, our maintenance supervisor. All our efforts were not lost, as Mr. Daniel was presented with a lovely trophy for being the best dressed gentleman in the parade.

There was a good turnout to fun and fitness on Thursday morning where we played monkey in the middle. The monkey turned up out of nowhere, was sure strange looking, and obviously wasn't very athletic as we had four perfect scores. The session ended with a vigorous game of kick the ball the tune of Smiley Bates' guitar picking.

A special birthday tea party was held Thursday afternoon to honour Lillian Miller, Carrie Jones, Wilbert Sisson, Amelia Good, and James Voicoy, who all celebrated birthdays in the month of July. These people were presented with corsages made up of carnations and were seated at the table especially for guests of honour.

The ladies of Club 35 brought a delicious assortment of fruit breads and cheese. Also they presented the birthday people with a lovely decorated birthday cake.

Friday morning, we had our regular fun and fitness program. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Grace Coburn, accompanied by Norma Barron, sang some solos for us and led us in a sing-song ending another busy week at Hyland Crest.

There were some fine works of art for sale at Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's Home in Minden on Saturday afternoon, as an art show and sale was held. All proceeds taken in at the sale will go to the township's library/museum fund.

Recycle it!

by Jane Selbie

Before announcing the winner for the summer "3 in 1" contest, I would like to express my appreciation to all those who wrote in. Not only did your letters convey encouraging words about this column, but they also showed a genuine interest in the concept of recycling.

Choosing a winner was extremely difficult because of the diverse nature of the submissions. However, after all the deliberations, the choice had to be made with the previously printed idea sent to us by Mrs. Cameron of Wilberforce for her many uses of old dress gloves. She suggested that not only are they useful for garden gloves or excellent protection when stripping and refinishing furniture but are a good first aid boon. By cutting the fingers of the glove 1/2 in. from the hand section, you can easily slip this protection over hand wound dressings to keep them clean. It can be simply removed to change the gauze and little or no adhesive tape is required. The finger and thumb portions are also handy for the same use. By interlacing sewing elastic in the top or taping to the finger you have an excellent protection for your hand injuries. Congratulations, Mrs. Cameron!

Thanks to all for the very good ideas that made our decision so difficult. Here are but a few.

Mrs. G. Brohman of Ingoldsby offers a multi-purpose way of using excess wallpaper. (1) It makes attractive, wide, strong shelf and drawer paper. (2) Makes unusual and inexpensive gift wrap. Often ends of rolls can be found at a rummage sale for pennies. (3) Prepacked wall paper makes a great covering for storage boxes or lining for trunks. (4) Vinyl wallpaper is great for covering various sizes of boxes to create a sturdy set of stacking blocks for a toddler.

Mrs. Clara Sedgwick of Gelett sent two handy suggestions. Electrical cords can be stored in paper towel or toilet paper tubes to keep them arranged in an orderly manner. Each can be marked for their appliance. Secondly, when camping, avoid a messy clean-up job by coating the bottom of pans, kettles and coffee pots with liquid soap. The soot will wash off easily with no scrubbing.

Sharon Barclay of Carnarvon finds a use for the excess packaging of so many products such as aspirin, toothpaste or whatever boxes. By gluing wrapping paper to them and attaching the ends of the paper over the flaps, the created gift box can be opened without destroying the box or wrapping. It saves buying expensive paper and can be reused several times. It also is a good way to keep older children busy. They can prepare them when boredom sets in.

It would seem from the response to this summer contest that you prefer a larger prize. So again with the permission of the Echo we will offer a second contest on the basis that prizes of August, September and October will be combined and offered at the end of October. It seems a long way off, I know, but we'll consider all entries received in that period. I still have many good ideas to share from this last contest so it will give you time to watch out for clever ideas or for the inventive to think up an original! Remember the prize will be $15.00. Send ideas to: Recycle It!, Haliburton Echo, Box 360, Haliburton, Ontario, K0M 1S0.

Water Control

The reservoir storage remaining on July 23 was 82 percent, down 5 percent from July 16, with much of the loss being due to high evaporation off the lakes themselves. During extremely hot, dry periods which we are experiencing now, up to one-half the weekly loss in storage from the reservoirs is due to evaporation, while the other half is water drawn off for the Trent-Severn Waterway.

The dry spell of the last few weeks was broken by scattered thunderstorms occurring from July 24 to 26, which dumped from 6 mm. to 50 mm. of rain across the Trent-Severn watershed. Prior to the recent rainfall, it became necessary to increase the flow from the reservoirs in order to maintain levels and flows throughout the system. It appears that the increased flow from the reservoirs, plus the recent rainfall, will cause some of the Kawartha lakes to overflow slightly by the end of the week. Minimum outflows from the Kawarthas will be maintained, thus allowing the outflow from the reservoirs to be reduced while the extra water is used up.

Very heavy rainfall over parts of the Lake Simcoe-Couchiching watershed (104 ent next. The seeds we buy in the stores are engineered as to color and a host of other characteristics, features that are only propagated if we use cuttings, but not seeds.

Monday afternoon many of us were bussed by Mrs. Pat Burk to the look-out park and what a view to see the village laid out below like a mosaic. It is certainly well worthwhile for any one to spend a few hours there, say, once a year. We enjoyed it and the ice cream cones served to us while up there.

This terrible drought has hit Extendicare, limiting those facilities that depend on water, and especially eliminating the watering of any of the landscape. Oh well! We cannot have everything and some of the plants will escape no matter how long the lack of rain will continue.

Our Tuesday's bingo progressed satisfactorily with skill another volunteer helper, Mrs. Greta Kellett, and last week's, Mrs. Betty Jane Gibson, both ladies of Haliburton. Besides those two, were Dorothy Iles, Mrs. Velma Springer, and Miss Karen Henderson. It was a very nice game.

Wednesday morning loomed a little dull with promise of that very much needed rain and us expecting a long bus ride to Parry Sound to see the sights of the 30,000 Islands, sights much more spectacular than Niagara, though the Japanese would undoubtedly dispute that. We are informed that the engineers' surveys, mapp-

Big Chute Marine Railway Official Opening

The Honourable John Fraser, P.C., M.P., the Minister responsible for Parks Canada, cordially invites you to the official opening of Big Chute Marine Railway. This ceremony will take place at the Big Chute on Sunday, August 5, 1979 at 4:00 p.m.

The ceremony will be enhanced by the recreation of Governor General Simcoe's journey in 1793 from the Holland River to Georgian Bay and the Upper Great Lakes, via the Severn River. A party of three voyageur canoes will be transported over the Chute in the new marine railway carriage.

Governor Simcoe and Mr. Douglas Lewis, M.P. for Simcoe North will preside at the ribbon cutting.

The Big Chute Marine Railway is unique in North America, and is located near Severn Falls. Road access is via Coldwater, Ontario.

One of our most welcome and impromptu gifts arose from the oleander bush growing in an old nail keg painted a light green and looking as though it may fall apart any time. On pointing this out to Don Hartle, Alice's brother, within 12 hours he presented us with a deep plastic pot that with a bit of painting and decorating can become a very handsome urn, the very thing we were looking for, and believe it or not he supplied the paint. That is all very hard to beat and thanks Don.

The Rev. Don Nicholson of the Haliburton United Church was our spiritual leader for the Friday morning devotional period. Mrs. Flossie Burk was the pianist. The theme is from Romans, "So now since we have been made right in God's sight by faith in his promises we can have real peace with him because of what Jesus Christ our Lord has done for us," giving us a standard to live by. There was time after the service for a snack of tea or coffee, and cookies.

Two movies were shown in the afternoon of the seeming incredible symbolism that dominated native politics, standards of living, and morality. It is possible, however, we are inclined to judge on a relatively short film that attempts to encompass everything.

Mid-summer fun will be in the making when the Galway-Cavendish Summer Festival '79 gets underway this weekend.

Proceeds for the event will go to the township's community centre building fund, and the festival will get underway Friday evening.

ings, numbering (including a corresponding number on each island inscribed above or below the water line of each island) then listing to a number in excess of 50,000, which makes you realize how very spectacular it is. The boat used on this cruise was of all aluminum construction, exceptionally roomy and nicely equipped for such as us. Although we had a steady head with considerable swell, the boat rode as well as if in calm water. Among the residents were, Jim Allen, Harold Austin, Mrs. Florence Burk, Mary Currah, Mrs. Ada Denholm, Miss Alice Hartle, Ezra Lott, Mrs. Christina McCrae, Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh, Harold McKelvey, Mrs. Hazel Parish, Jack Pollard, Mrs. Elsie Porter, Ray Smith, Mrs. Florence Stagg, Norman Titus, Mrs. Flora Walling, Charles Welch, Mrs. Maud Weston and Alfred Whitley. Volunteer helpers and guests of the Happy Gange were Percy and Mrs. Carrie Drysdale, Roy and Mrs. Margaret Fedorchuk and her sister Mary, Mrs. Eileen Morrison, Mrs. Mary Harrison, Mrs. Miriam Lewis, our esteemed former director, Mrs. Blanch Linton, Percy McCrae, Robert McLagan, Tim Barnes, Wyatt Legge and David Irwin. nurse, Miss Diane Dainard, discipline, and Miss Susan Ainsworth, order. Fancy getting all those folk into a bus, but it was done and with comfort. The rain stayed away to give us a nice dry picnic at Parry Sound's look-out tower and scenic gardens. The gardens were very nice, well groomed but with less variety than ours. None of us climbed the tower. This trip clocked 105 miles one way. We left at 9:20 a.m. and arrived back at 10:30 p.m. Everyone declared their enjoyment. We nearly missed telling about the big flock of seagulls that followed us from Parry Sound to Oastler Provincial Park, 5 miles inland, where our gracious ladies prepared a delicious supper of barbecued chicken, potato salad, cole slaw and butter tarts, washed down by tea, or orange juice. What those hungry gulls did to the leftovers was something to behold and demonstrated a remarkable pecking order. All of them were cute but they followed the bus no further.

Haliburton Highlights

by Creighton Feir

The Village of Haliburton is growing in more ways than one. New businesses are starting up, more new homes are being built and progress is being made at a very fast rate. Many former residents who haven't been back home to Haliburton for some time, tell me that they are just astounded at the way the village is coming ahead and the many changes that have been made. This is great news and there is more to come.

Rev. Don Nicholson of the Haliburton United Church has been asked to be "Teacher of the Week" for '100 Huntley Street' in Toronto this coming Monday to Friday, August 6 to 10. You will have the opportunity to see him on the program on Monday, August 6 and he will be teaching every noon hour for the remainder of the week.

We would like to report that we have good news concerning the Vietnamese boat people. The response to sponsoring families in this area has been beyond all expectations. We understand that the United Church in Minden will be sponsoring a family, the Anglican Church in Haliburton will be sponsoring two families and the Haliburton Pastoral Charge of the United Church are sponsoring one family right away and possibly another one in the very near future.

Past president and past district governor Harold Herlihey, gave the members of the Rotary Club of Haliburton a report on his recent trip to the Rotary International Convention in Rome. He mentioned that they encountered considerable difficulty in getting a plane to their destination. The theme of the conference was "The Year of the Child" and except for the problems with the convention hall's sound system and the considerable distances to travel between various functions, the group apparently had an enjoyable and informative trip.

Our congratulations to the Lions Club of Haliburton who have been kept very busy these days painting up litter barrels which will be distributed to any municipality who could use them. The club hopes to paint up 86 barrels and 30 of them will be going to the Municipality of Dysart et al.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neville have returned home following a month's vacation out west. They drove out and back and report that they had a very enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Henry of Orangeville have been holidaying at their cottage on Loon Lake.

Decoration Day at Evergreen Cemetery, Haliburton has been scheduled for Sunday, August 12, 1979. Service at the cemetery will be held at 2 p.m.

Murray Fearrey, Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al has announced that Monday, September 17, 1979, has been designated as a Civic Holiday in lieu of the normal August date.

According to the Toronto Star, Meatballs, the Canadian-made summer camp comedy which was filmed in Haliburton and stars Saturday Night Live's Bill Murray, is doing roaring trade at the Canadian box office. It took in $1,326,000 across the country in just four weeks, the first week in Toronto only. In the United States, its box office has topped $9 million and going strong. It's another Canadian million-dollar winner for Ivan Reitman who had the same results with the Canadian-made movies, Shivers, Rabid and Death Weekend (all of them horror efforts).

We understand that the Haliburton Hockey Haven is a hive of activity this week with a total of 192 boys in camp. They are running in five different shifts at the Haliburton arena to accommodate the boys.

This coming Civic Holiday weekend will be another big boost for local businesses and resorts here in the Highlands of Haliburton. We can look forward to a very large influx of people from all parts of Ontario heading our way for a week of fun and enjoyment away from the rat race of the larger centres. This could possibly be one of the biggest weekends of the year.

The Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts will be holding an auction at the Raily End Station Gallery (formerly old C.N. Railway Station), in the Village of Haliburton this coming Saturday, August 4 at 10:00 a.m. The auctioneer will be Bill Rusland from the Peterborough Auction Room. Proceeds will be used for the restoration of the old C.N. Railway Station.

A number from Haliburton are planning on being in Wilberforce at the arena this coming Saturday night to hear the Family Brown who were voted the top country group as seen on the Tommy Hunter Show and stars of "Family Brown Country". The event is being sponsored by the South Algonquin Kinsmen.

Five-thirty p.m. seems to be a popular time for accidents at the government dock road and highway 35. Two weeks ago, a truck overturned there spilling out its load of lumber and on Saturday, July 21 about 5:30 p.m. there was the sound of squealing brakes followed by a loud thud and then a lot of people running to see what had happened. Jim Holmes was pulling out of the dock road to make a left turn onto highway 35 when a station wagon travelling north hit the side of his truck. It was very fortunate that no one was hurt and damage to both vehicles minimal. I called the O.P.P. to report the accident and had to use the Zenith 50,000 telephone number because the Cobocok O.P.P. branch was closed. After dialing 0, the phone rang twelve times before the operator answered and it was another few minutes before I was put through to Lindsay O.P.P. Because there also had been an earlier accident near Cobocok, cruisers were at a minimum and it was nearly half an hour before one appeared at the scene of the Norland accident. In the meantime, because of the damaged vehicles, busy Saturday evening traffic was restricted to one lane on highway 35 causing other near misses and slow-ups. The new Cobocok Ontario Provincial Police headquarters on highway 48 that is being constructed is progressing well but it is my understanding that this new location will not increase the number of policemen or cars that will be available in this area, and the office will not be open for calls 24 hours a day. This is unfortunate because in a real emergency, this is too long a time delay.

There are some new signs around Norland that you should have noticed; the Norland Horticultural Society sign in the park beside the post office that was attractively designed, routed and painted by Don McLean of the Big M signs and erected by Roy Bryant and Fred Lewis. Also, the township fire hall has new 18 inch letters telling that it is a fire hall.

thanks to John Ridgway who cut them, painted and put them up over the large hall doors.

It was with sorrow that I heard of the recent passing of Edward Lee on July 16 in Toronto. Ed and the late Rolla Lee were former residents on highway 503 just east of Norland and were members of Norland United Church. Funeral services were at the Platten and Wagg Funeral Home, Fenelon Falls on Thursday, July 19 with interment at Pine Grove Cemetery, Norland.

Someone had a lot of energy that could have been put to better use last Saturday night, July 18. He or she climbed the 20-foot flag pole situated on Farrington's Wee Boutique property and stole the ropes and Canadian flag. This is not the first time that this has happened, but it does seem to be a terrible waste of time and expense, and the Farringtons are hoping the culprit will be caught.

An invitation is extended to everyone to attend the Norland United Church Women's bazaar, bake sale and tea on Wednesday, August 8 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the United Church hall. The church is on the west side of highway 35 about 300 yards north of highway 503. The ladies will have home-baked goods, fresh garden vegetables, knitted and crocheted articles and other handicrafts for sale. Refreshments of tea or coffee and dessert will be available at 75 cents a person.

For about the past two weeks, I have been enjoying a glorioxa plant that was given to me in bloom last February. After it finished blooming, I cut the leaves back and placed it in the basement, watering it occasionally until mid-April. At that time I brought it back to the sunlight, fertilized it and it proceeded to grow and form small buds. The buds became blooms and all 21 of them flowered - at one time the plant had 17 flowers in bloom. It was a truly beautiful sight.

On Tuesday, August 7, all the summer clothing, shoes, etc., in the Norland U.C.W.

Opportunity Shop will be on sale at half price. The prices were low before, but now you can buy twice as much with even more savings. The shop is located on the east side of highway 35, just south of highway 503 and is open Tuesdays and Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m. For great bargains be sure and visit it.

Rev. Kenneth Crawford of the Cobocok United Church Pastoral Charge and his wife, are enjoying three weeks of holidays in the Kingston area. Other ministers will take the church services on Sunday, July 29, August 5 and August 12. In the event of an emergency requiring ministerial care, Rev. Crawford may be reached by telephone at his cottage by calling 613-358-2197.

The final figures have been tabulated for the 1979 United Church walkathon, and more than $2,200 was realized by the five churches (Baddow, Burnt River, Cobocok, Kinmount and Norland) who were involved in it. Sincere thanks to everyone who walked or supported a walker in this special mission and service world development project.

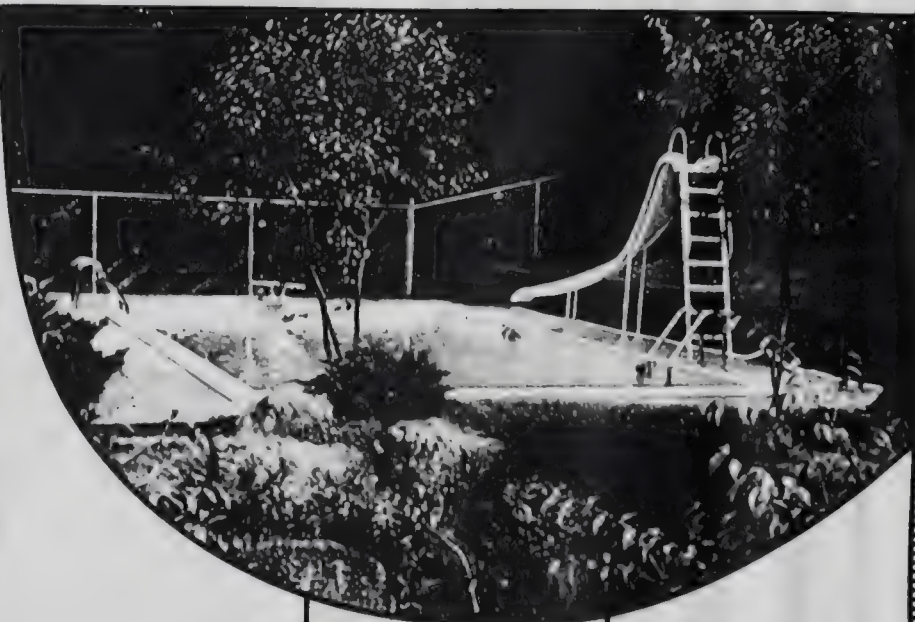

On July 31 to August 4, the play being presented by the Kawartha Summer Theatre is entitled "Barefoot in the Park". It is the story of a young and imaginative girl who tries to prove to her serious lawyer husband that there is a great deal of fun in life, aided by her mother and a mad Rumanian who lives in the apartment above her. The Academy Theatre in Lindsay is the place to see this popular comedy on Tuesday to Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m. with all seats reserved costing $5.00 each and the 2 p.m. matinee, Wednesdays, at $3.50 with no reservations needed. Phone 324-9111 for reservations.

May your 1979 Civic Holiday weekend be a safe and happy one.

A group of aspiring artists from the Haliburton School of Fine Arts took to the field last Wednesday afternoon with brush and palette in hand, to paint Bank's General Store in Haliburton. The group is currently involved in water-colour painting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson are touring Europe these summer months.

Mr. Clayton McKay, who has been in poor health for some time, was rushed to Peterborough by ambulance on Sunday.

The late Peter Miscio was married to Joyce McPhail and her relatives from St. Williams, St. Catharines and Welland arrived to attend the large funeral. Interment took place in Twelve Mile Lake cemetery. Peter and Joyce recently purchased the Milt Cooper home and, after the funeral, lunch was served in their home. Mrs. Arch McKay, Mrs. Velda Harrison and Mrs. Irene Minaker were in charge.

Mr. Craig Windsor and family are holidaying on Twelve Mile Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Westfall and daughter spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Windsor. They are from Trenton and Frank is an early riser and could be seen walking around the block around 5 a.m.

Mr. Neil Barnhart and sons of Dwight visited at the Barnharts on Sunday.

The Twelve Mile Lake golfers held their tournament at the PineStone Inn on Saturday and the ladies joined them for dinner after the tournament.

I believe the Bun and Run have as many flavours of ice cream as the well-known Howard Johnson's restaurants claim to have.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scott of Searchmount are visiting relatives and attended a nephew's wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Thomas of Peterborough are holidaying in their trailer and visiting relatives.

Mrs. Raymond McKay and daughter Tracy are with relatives in Quebec.

Mr. Graham and girlfriend from Darlington, England are visiting his aunt, Mrs. Max McKay.

Mr. Keith Thomas is holidaying with friends in Hamilton.

"You know that you have read a good book when you turn the last page and feel a little as if you had lost an old friend."

Bishop Frank Nock, Bishop of the Diocese of Algoma, visited the Lake of Bays mission on the weekend of July 21. On Saturday, Bishop Nock and his wife, accompanied by Father Bradford, made calls on parishoners in Baysville and Port Cunnington and on Sunday he conducted the service at St. Mary Magdalene's in Dorset. Afterwards there was a reception at the rectory which was informal and gave the people a chance to converse with the Bishop.

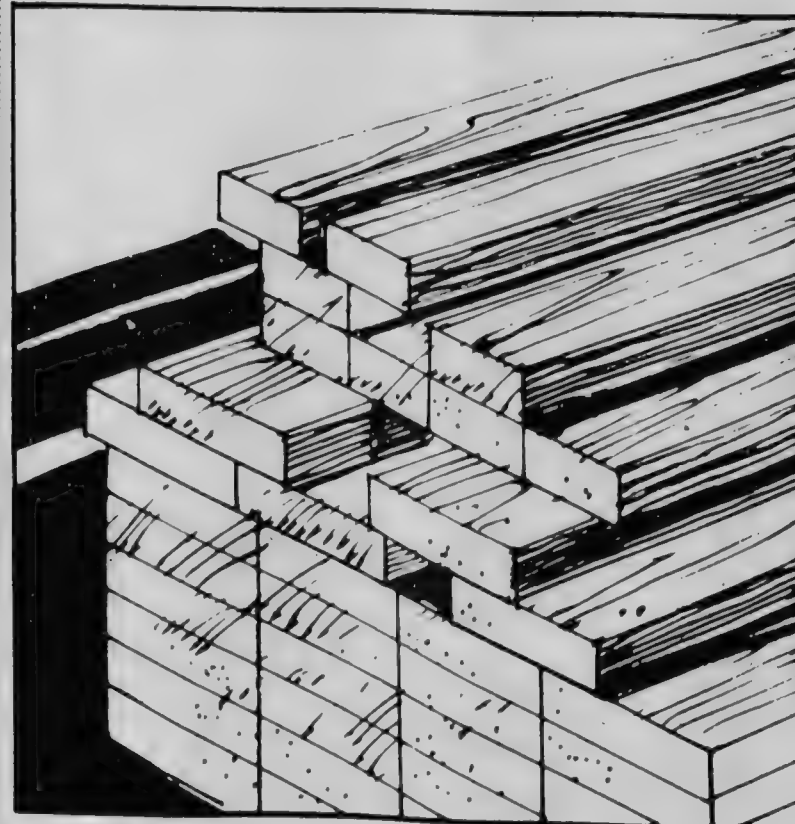

George and Judy Young and their four children from Ottawa are visiting with Judy's parents, Dot and Art Lock, for a month. Their children range in age from 2½ to twelve years.

A high old time was had by all who took the bus to Woodbine on Thursday. The weather was perfect and of course there were the winners and the losers and those who broke even. Everyone takes their chances on luck. But it was lots of fun and everyone enjoyed it. Once again, many thanks to Frank and Jeanette Large for making all the arrangements.

The Dorset Senior Club wish to thank all those who made their first effort at holding a bazaar the success it was. The members convening the various booths were very efficient and capable although some were inexperienced in such efforts. The public turned out in full force and took advantage of all the products that were for sale. Thanks again to workers and patrons.

So how did everyone survive the heat wave? Personally, I spent most of it in the lake so I guess a lot of people did who had access to it. The gardens really took off with the heat and then the rain, so let's hope we don't have one of those mid-summer cold spells to slow things down again.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

Sorry to have shorted you on my column last week, but since I was in the hospital, I was unable to do it, and for several weeks will not have too long a column as I will be unable to pound the typewriter. If you will put up with me and if the paper still wants me to do it, I will keep as much in as possible.

Don't forget the birthdays at Hyland Crest for August are: Ethel Robinson, 6th; Eliza Chalmers, 19th; Charlotte Cooper, 20th; Alma Rutter, 21st; Ernest Berry, 25th; Viola Deumo, 27th; Alberta Webber, 29th.

Recently a gala party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt in honour of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Houston, Texas. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Blair of Uxbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Marks of Thornhill, Mr. and Mrs. Art Thorpe of Brampton, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lynas of Scarborough, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gorrie and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Jackson of Minden. Everyone had a wonderful weekend.

I wonder if the people who drive up and down Prince Street realize that there is a speed limit on that street. Having to sit quietly on the porch, one can notice whether or not the cars are observing the signs and it is very noticeable that a number drive as fast on that street as on the highway. The reason I mention this is the fact that there are a number of children in that area who wouldn't stand a chance if hit by a car going at 50 m.p.h. instead of the 35 m.p.h. limit.

It was too bad that there was such a heavy rain on the first carnival night, but at least those in the parade didn't get wet. Thursday evening proved much nicer for the crowds who were there.

The art show at Hyland Crest last Saturday afternoon was well attended and a number of paintings were sold. The oil painting donated by Dr. Agnes Jamieson was won by Mrs. Carey of Haliburton.

The $1000 bill drawn on the last evening of the carnival was won by Mrs. Green of Pickering.

If you were on the main street last Wednesday afternoon and noticed people working at different arts that were symbolic of pioneer days, here are their names: Judy Chapman - weaving; Donna VanderWekken - spinning; Beatrice Taylor - rug hooking; Mrs. Roy Hopkins and Gladys Suggest of Fenelon Falls - butter making. Gladys Suggest is the author of Roses and Thorns. I believe all were in pioneer costumes.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson attended the wedding of their great nephew, Kevin Cockburn to Elinor Benson in Woodville last Saturday.

Cairine Figueiredo who has been visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. L. MacCarty, has returned home to New York state.

Frankie and Jody Peel of Chilivack, B.C. are visiting Frankie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Len Hamilton.

Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Kernohan were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sisson of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Graham and Michael of Huntsville and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barkwell of Port Sydney.

Traffic is very heavy in the towns at this time of year, and it seems impossible to even pass a car, but I have seen cars making a 'U' turn right in the middle of the street. This is very dangerous and should be stopped with so many people crossing from one side to the other all the time. Maybe a crosswalk would not be a bad idea, for most of our visitors know what crosswalks are for.

Don't forget the library-museum meeting at 8 p.m. on Monday, August 6. Then on Tuesday, August 7 is the Minden and district horticultural meeting at 7:30 p.m. Both these meetings are at the Minden municipal building and everyone is welcome to attend.

Mrs. Gerald Welch of Florida and Mr. Ron Welch of Frankford have been recent visitors with Mrs. Edith Welch.

Bradley Robinson of London is visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson.

Mrs. Annie Dawson spent the weekend in Toronto. While there, she attended the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dawson.

Muriel Ewing and sons, Scott and Chris, are holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sears.

The president of the Minden and District Horticultural Society, Mrs. Elizabeth Carrell, attended the District 4 Flower Show in Bobcaygeon recently and won first prize on one of her arrangements.

The library-museum art centre group of Minden held their first art show at Hyland Crest Home on Saturday, July 28, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Everyone enjoyed the exhibit of over 60 paintings. Dr. H. Vaughan, a summer resident of this area since 1918, displayed 36 paintings of 16 scenes ranging from B.C. to Connecticut, and one from the Swiss Alps as well as 20 areas of Haliburton County.

Local painters who had art on display were Cy Heal, Gino Zorjen, Elizabeth Carrell, Bob MacBrien, Lloyd Coleman, Henry Wiebert and Agnes Jamieson.

The centre group received a 25 percent commission on all paintings sold.

At the rotary hall, a bake sale and white elephant table, also a raffle on an oil painting, helped swell the treasury.

Hasti-notes designed by Canadian artist Louise Boddy are on sale in a number of places. Two stores selling these are the Candlewood Shop and Two Sense Worth. Over 100 people enjoyed viewing the paintings or chatting over tea and cookies. The proceeds from the sale and art sale netted over $650.

There are tickets on sale now on a quilt which is on display in the Cox's Apparel window. This will be drawn for on the weekend of August 11 and 12 so be sure to get your tickets for this lovely quilt. They are on sale in the stores.

In signing off, I would like to thank my friends for their kindness and cards. I'd also like to say that anytime I am ill, I hope that they keep me in Minden hospital, for the nurses and staff are terrific. Adios and take care now.

Get well wishes go out to Mrs. May Benson who is in Ross Memorial Hospital. Also, get well wishes go out to Mrs. Ada Ferguson of Head Lake who is a patient in Wellesley Hospital, Toronto.

The local businessmen are having a campaign to raise money to install Christmas lights on the poles around town. Hopefully the campaign will be fully supported and when the lights are installed, vandals will not disturb the lights.

It's carnival weekend and we are having a heavy rain. Hope the weather clears and the carnival is a success.

The Rutter families and Mrs. C. Lake and Roslyn Lake went to Toronto on Saturday for the wedding of Marilyn Rutter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rutter, and husband. The wedding took place in Scarborough.

Mrs. Major White of Fenelon Falls and granddaughter Kim White, visiting from Calgary, Alberta, were supper guests of Mrs. Annie Marles on Thursday evening.

A family reunion was held on Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Faulkner for relatives of Evelyn and Wilmer Chipman and children of Grand Falls, Newfoundland. Evelyn is the daughter of Mr. Chas. Brohm of Miners Bay. The new homes to be built on Base Line Road are on the Horvatt property. My apolo-

Our sympathy to Mr. Stu Jarvie who lost his wife, Edna, last weekend. The Jarvies live on Elizabeth St. and though Edna had not been well, her death was unexpected.

Mrs. Jessie Rutter reports her brother, Bruce Sims, is doing okay following surgery in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Mrs. Earl Hughes is home after a week's holiday at Cambridge with her family. Mr. and Mrs. Trotter of Oshawa have been visiting the Hughes.

Mr. Gordon Weaver's new craft shop north of town, is progressing nicely. The building is just south of Quinn's trailer park.

The picturesque Christ Church in Essonville is the earliest Anglican building in Monmouth Township. It is said to be almost one hundred years old and was built at a time when Essonville was an active community. As the years passed and people moved to other areas, the congregation grew less until it was necessary to close the building. However, it has not been neglected, and once a year it is re-opened for service.

Members of several religious denominations take turns in officiating and this year, worship will be conducted by the Anglican ministry with the Rev. Moore Smith taking the service.

This year's annual service takes place on August 5 at 3 p.m. and it is expected that many people will come and enjoy a renewal of memories of the past.

During the Country Good Times weekend, many people fail to visit the Monmouth Library and so miss a very good show. This year's program was better than ever. Special attention was given to the International Year of the Child. Activities were geared to please the children. For the very young there was a ten cent fish pond. A drawing board was arranged so that aspiring young artists could crayon in their own designs and sign their names. One section was set aside for horse lovers with pictures, ribbons, saddles and bridle, riding hats, stetsons and harness equipment.

On Saturday films were shown for entertainment while on Sunday the horror show drew crowds of people. A cabinet set up by Lynn and Ken Binskin displayed some very interesting rocks to be found in this area with samples of fine jewellery fashioned from the stones. As usual free refreshments were offered to all with freshie for the youngsters and lemonade for the adults along with cookies and squares.

A museum float from Toronto parked at the curb and provided a display of Canadian archeology with arrows, pots and other artifacts. The curator was James Breeze of Toronto who is a teacher of geology during the winter months. Mr. Breeze was interested in the activities of the area and was surprised at the large crowds of people and the lively participation of the local residents. He mentioned that Wilberforce had a high rating on a list of fifty fairs in Ontario.

The library produced a well-decorated float for the parade. Members of the Library Committee did the necessary decorating with help from others such as Marcia Bowers whose assistance was greatly appreciated.

Wow! Thirty-two celcius again today, but when you stop and think of those winter catalogues that are coming in the mail, our summer time is getting shorter and our complaints should be nil.

Congratulations are in order at this time to Mr. and Mrs. John Noble of Essonville, Ontario who, along with their immediate family, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday last. Our best to you for many more.

Visiting with their son Wayne and family of Peterborough, was Mr. and Mrs. Randal McCrea and boys and sister Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hoare.

From St. Catharines for the weekend was Helen and Calvin, and Susan Miller with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Billings. Sandra will be returning home after a two week vacation with her grandmother and grandfather.

Taking a few holidays in Hamilton and Niagara Falls are Mr. and Mrs. Bev Billings Tina and Andrew. They will be visiting with relatives in the area as well.

Some of the local people are beginning holidays now with The Wilberforce Veneer factory and Hunter's Mill at Gooderham closed for vacation.

I must put my two cents worth in on this matter. We were fishing in a local lake and thought we had a nice fish on only to find out it was part of a bag of garbage. This same incident happened last year in the same lake and it was reported then. It is just disgusting. We have a number of well-kept garbage dumps in the area and there should be no reason for this whatsoever. This is only laziness and lack of concern for man and environment.

Before returning home to Ottawa after a vacation at their cottage on Lake Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Anderson visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Marks in Beaverton on Thursday.

Best wishes go out to a couple of local girls and their husbands who were recently married, namely, Jayne and Gerry Sheir, "nee" Godfrey, and Gail and Ray Krupa.

We are sorry at this time to hear Mrs. M. McMahon is ill in Civic Hospital in Peterborough.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cully of Lindsay on the arrival of their first baby, also a first grandchild for Mrs. Madeline Cully. Being a wee girl, a very happy aunt is Marilyn; Lyle's sister.

Spending a few days' relaxation at the hunt camp for the weekend were Mr. Ernie Latchford and Ray of Peterborough.

Best of luck to Mr. and Mrs. M. Kemmer who are moving to Peterborough soon. They lived a number of years in our village.

Miss Joann Billings is visiting for a few days in Toronto with friends.

Thursday was travel time for many of our dogs and cats when they visited the veterinary in Haliburton for their rabbies shots. Many howled, many cried, and many meowed, but that's a dog's life.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Riel visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. Riel on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Dunford had as their guests recently, Nancy's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hunziter of Toronto. Also home from the city was Miss Barbara Dunford visiting relatives.

Mrs. Marjorie Baker and daughter Susan and friend Ralin, have been visiting in the area.

From St. Catharines was Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bowen and Mrs. Millie Wilson and son Billy for a few days in the village.

Stanhope Notes

by Alex Stevenson

The report from the Fire Services Section of the Fire Marshal's Office re: the inquiry into the troubles of the Stanhope Fire Department was, in our opinion, a fair and objective document and in our opinion, the proposals were intended to pave the way to providing a good and efficient fire department for this township. It also served to correct sources of irritation and discontent that existed in the past among some members of the department.

It is our belief that a cool analysis of this report will indicate that some people have been vindicated, while others have been discreetly chastised and, by implication, that some improvements in the organization were in order.

The report reminded council that fire protection was the responsibility of municipal councils. In the case of Stanhope, the report suggested that a new and comprehensive by-law is needed and should provide terms of reference as to how the fire department should be administered to meet council's needs or wishes.

It was recommended that a committee of three council members be appointed as a Fire Committee. The report also found the former fire chief in error when he dismissed four members of the department and that he should have suspended them and submitted a report to council for their action. However, the report went on to point out that the former chief had a good knowledge of how a fire department should be administered. It also pointed out that the former chief did conscientiously attempt to carry out his duties as chief and while some criticized his leadership, others had praised him. The report then recommended that the former chief be reinstated by council. It further recommended to council that he be instructed to assume a command position at any fire scene and that the actual fire fighting be left to fire fighters while he provided leadership. The mass resignation of fire fighters could not be condoned by the Fire Marshal's Office but suggested that they resigned out of frustration because of council's action in dismissing the chief. On the other hand, the report praised the temporary fire fighters who assumed responsibility for providing fire protection to the township when the others suddenly quit and left the township without any fire protection. The report also suggested that the department be reorganized into five departments, namely, administration, training, equipment, fire prevention, and fire fighting. Other proposals were made concerning by-laws and recommendations re: advertising of positions on the department. The office of the Fire Marshal also offered to assist in the promotional interviews for the position of fire chief and of deputy fire chief. In the event that council should adopt the recommendations of the report, the Fire Marshal's Office would provide a forty hour training course, and also offered to monitor the activities of the department for a period of six months.

Families attend Witness convention

Many families from the Haliburton area were among 25,011 delegates who attended the district convention of Jehovah's Witnesses at Montreal's Olympic Stadium. Local spokesman, Mr. Thomas Andros said L. K. Greenless of New York delivered the principal address of the meeting, speaking on the subject "Mankind's Only Hope - God's Unshakable Kingdom".

Greenless told the audience at the Olympic Stadium that viewing the present world situation has caused an increasing number of people to despair of ever seeing an end to crime and violence.

Quoting a Harris survey, Greenless said the vast majority of people want to see a decline in violence but 67 percent interviewed indicated they do not expect to see it in their lifetime.

"Man's inability to provide a satisfactory administration of earth's affairs in this century has become more painfully obvious than ever before," he said.

Citing human failures taking on "new proportions of seriousness," Greenless said the events since 1914 have led the world to the brink of disaster.

"It is high time for mankind to stop listening to the empty philosophies and promises of imperfect men and start listening to the one who knows," Greenless continued.

Greenless said the solution to the problems facing mankind is God's kingdom by Jesus Christ. The Witnesses believe this to be a real government that will soon administer the affairs of earth.

It is understood that council will soon advertise for applicants who wish to serve on the volunteer fire department and then recreate the department along the lines laid out in the report from the Fire Marshal's office.

Work goes ahead on the preparations for Stanhope Festival of Fun, August 18, at the community centre near the fire hall on North Shore Road. Ray Woodward who is in charge of the dog show has announced the following as part of the program. Class A, a fun show open to any dog; Class B, a best of breeds show; Class C, obedience match. The fun show will provide prizes for the best dressed, the longest, the smallest, the spottiest, the longest haired, the longest nosed, the shortest legged, and the shortest haired dogs entered.

The best of breeds will have classes for the sporting dogs, working dogs, hounds, terriers, toy, and non-sporting dogs. The winners of these classes will then vie for the best of breeds award. Obedience matches open to all dogs any breed or age, but not to professionally trained dogs. Anyone desiring to enter may call Ray Woodward for information at 754-2040.

Kinmount Klippings

Hi folks! Well here we are with warm sunny weather still with us.

The rain on Saturday did not hinder the auction sale at Perc Scarlett's. The highway was lined with cars on both sides plus all the ones parked in the field. Some say it was just like fair day.

Mrs. Mary Munro and Mrs. Ruth Menard spent a few days last week visiting with Mary's mother in Pembroke.

Mr. Bert Young is still in hospital. Hopefully he will be home this week.

Mr. Harvey Gardiner is in Peterborough Civic Hospital where he underwent surgery. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Caro Mintz of Irondale is in Mount Sinai Hospital in Toronto. He may be home at the end of the week but will probably have to go back for a while again. Best of luck, Caro.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hartin and family of Elliott Lake spent the weekend with relatives and friends.

August 3 and 4 will be the weekend of The Galway-Cavendish summer festival. There will be events for young and old alike.

Many happy returns to Mr. Alfred Bluet who celebrated his birthday on Sunday with his family.

Keith Stata is gradually getting the bugs out of his projector. He has some very good films and it sure is nice to have a theatre in town. Don't forget this is Wintario Week.

Acid rain increases availability of heavy metals

Mercury: The bane of fresh water

One of the most persistent and controversial pollutants of the last decade has been mercury - one of the so-called heavy metals. Originally identified as a concern because of high emissions from pulp and paper operations, mercury provides a fascinating case study into the handling of toxic pollutants in Ontario.

Mercury is very stable, meaning that once it escapes into the environment it stays there for a long time. As well, a form of mercury becomes biologically active and enters the food chain, accumulating higher and higher levels in the predators at the top of that chain. Man is at the very top, and occurrences of mercury poisoning in Japan sparked fears of a similar tragedy here.

Mercury affects the nervous system. When seeds for field crops were treated with a mercury pesticide, poisoning of birds, causing staggering, convulsions, and death, was fairly common. When mercury poisoning in humans reaches high levels, similar symptoms occur.

The control measures of the last ten years are beginning to show results. Mercury concentrations in falcon eggs have dropped steadily on the prairies as a result of the banning of mercury treating of seeds. Samples of crayfish in mercury-polluted waters show a similar decline. Mercury emissions from Chlor-alkali plants, a major source, have dropped 99 percent since 1972 when tough regulations came into effect.

Nevertheless, the problem remains serious. Large quantities of mercury remain in the polluted sediments at the bottom of lakes and rivers contaminated before 1972. One of the side effects of the increasing acidification of these waters by acid rain is an increase in the availability of heavy metals, including mercury.

One puzzling aspect is the presence of mercury in many lakes with no industrial source located nearby. Scientists now think that air-borne transport plays a major role, and that emissions into the atmosphere from smelters, the burning of fossil fuels, and chlor-alkali plants could be important sources.

If you eat sport fish caught in Ontario, check the provincial government's guide on safe levels for their consumption. While we are coming closer to control of mercury emissions from major sources, the legacy of our past errors will be with us for a long time to come.

Farm News & Views

Armyworm outbreak

During the past week, many farmers in Victoria and Haliburton Counties have found serious infestations of armyworms in their crops.

These pests have caused considerable damage to many fields of spring grain, and have started to attack some corn fields. A number of farmers have sprayed their crops to control the armyworm, some using aerial sprayers.

The adult is a light brown moth which flies at night. In early June the female moth lays her eggs in grassy fields such as hay and grain fields. The larva then feed on the leaves of plants of the grass family, and grow rapidly for several weeks. A full-grown larva is about 1½ inches long and the size of a pencil.

The larva then burrow into the ground to pupate, emerging as an adult the next spring.

The armyworms damage grain crops by eating the leaves, and by eating off the seed stems. In corn, the leaves are damaged. When the worms have eaten off all the food available they then travel in search of new feed. This habit gives them their name. While they can move quickly, they only travel from one field to another, not for miles across a township as some people have suggested this week.

Once a grain field is nearing maturity, the armyworm will move out in search of greener feed. The later-seeded fields of oats and barley have been the ones hardest hit in this area this year.

Armyworms seldom eat legume crops such as alfalfa, clover, trefoil and beans.

While several insecticide sprays are effective against armyworms, most farmers have been using Sevin. One and a quarter pounds of 85 percent material is used on an acre. Other insecticides used are Lannate L, Malathion or Methoxychlor.

The ideal time to spray is when the armyworms are feeding on the plants. This is usually in the evening, however, if they're hungry, it can be any time of the day. Also, spraying is only needed on a field which has a large population of worms present in it - over 6 worms per square foot. There is no advantage in spraying a field which has no worms present.

There are several parasites and predators which attack armyworms. These should become prevalent enough to control most of this year's worms before they become adults next year, and cause even worse problems.

At a July meeting of Stanhope council, the following matters were discussed. Elgin Stouffer declared conflict of interest to the payment of accounts at this meeting.

Council will reply to a letter from the Victoria County Housing Authority advising of its intent to accept responsibility for Stanhope's share of the operating deficiency of each unit in the Senior Citizen's Apartments occupied by residents of Stanhope.

Council approved a donation of $25.00 to be paid to the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts for assistance on their scholarship program as outlined in their letter.

Council authorized the clerk to donate the amount of $50.00 to the Township of Dover flood fund.

Council decided changes outlined in the suggested airport contract will be incorporated into Jim McLean contract for final approval at the next council meeting.

Council decided to give the by-law enforcement officer authority to pursue the removal of the undesirable building on Lot 31, Concession 5, Township of Stanhope.

Council approved payment of stipends to members of the Committee of Adjustment.

Council approved applications #4621000033 and #46-21000041 under the Ontario Home Renewal Program outlined by the by-law officer.

The by-law enforcement officer and the clerk were authorized to proceed with having the well at the community centre drilled to a greater depth. Cost is to be shared by Roads, Fire Department, Library and Community Centres Board.

Community Centres Board.

Council agreed that additional surfacing will be applied to township roads if funding is available.

Council decided to add "Contents of Firemen's Community Hall" to the insurance policy at a value of $15,000 and to review coverage on Fire Fighting Equipment.

Council authorized the clerk to add "Errors and Omissions insurance" to the overall coverage with an annual premium of $405.

Roger Woods was authorized on behalf of council to send a thank you letter to Gordon Bennett for his boats and equipment supplied at the time of the fire at the far end of Little Hawk Lake.

Council accepted Elvin Johnson's letter dated June 11, 1979 declaring his discontinuance of service for the Stanhope Fire Department.

Council will approach the Property Owner's Association, in writing, to take responsibility for installing waterway speed limit signs in areas outlined in By-law 79-20.

General Accounts totalling $8,736.08; June, 1979 Welfare Voucher totalling $1,320.39 and Road Voucher #6 in the amount of $14,261.68 were allowed for payment.

By-law 79-20, a by-law to authorize maximum speed limits on certain waters within the township was passed.

The next regular meeting of council will be held Wednesday, August 8, 1979 at 9:30 a.m.

System will screen drivers for possible impairment

ALERT introduced by OPP

Beginning today, the Ontario Provincial Police will introduce the use of Alcohol Level Evaluation Roadside Testers - ALERT, Roy McMurtry, Solicitor General of Ontario announced today.

The ALERT is a screening device to help the officers more effectively identify drivers who may be impaired, said McMurtry. This device does not have the evidentiary value of a breathalyzer. The ALERT screening simply gives a scientific indication of whether a drinking driver should be prevented from driving at that moment for the safety of other people, and should be taken to a station where a breathalyzer test can be administered, Mr. McMurtry said.

During an ALERT screening, which is conducted at roadside by a police officer, the driver breathes into a device which measures the blood alcohol content. A green light indicates a blood alcohol reading of less than 50 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. A yellow light is shown if the reading is between 50 and 100 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. This range includes the level of 80 milligrams which is the limit specified by the Criminal Code. A red light indicates a reading of 100 or more milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. These devices will be used in 24 patrol cars in the OPP districts of Mount Forest, Barrie, Peterborough and Downsview.

Alert devices are being used to help alleviate some of the difficulties police face in apprehending impaired drivers and to help reduce the number of road accidents which have increased alarmingly in 1979 compared with the previous year. We know that much of the carnage on Ontario's highways involves drinking and driving. We believe that this improved method of identifying impaired drivers, plus a greater willingness on the part of the public to drive more responsibly, will assist in cutting down the high number of road accidents in our province. The Minden detachment now have an ALERT screening device.

We anticipate a full ALERT program in all districts in 1980. This program utilizing

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

TO THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD BY THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF GLAMORGAN FOR APPROVAL OF A BY-LAW TO REGULATE LAND USES PASSED PURSUANT TO SECTION 35 OF THE PLANNING ACT. TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Glamorgan intends to apply to The Ontario Municipal Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 35 of The Planning Act for approval of By-law No. 79-14, passed on the 21st day of June, 1979. A copy of the By-law is furnished herewith and a note giving an explanation of the purpose and effect of the By-law and stating the lands affected thereby is also furnished herewith.

ANY PERSON INTERESTED MAY, within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this notice, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the Township of Glamorgan notice of objection to approval of the said By-law or part thereof, giving details of all or the portion of the By-law to which you object and detailed reasons therefor, and shall indicate that if a hearing is held the objector or an agent will attend at the hearing to support the objection.

ANY PERSON wishing to support the application for approval of the By-law may within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this notice send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the Township of Glamorgan notice of his support or approval of the said By-law together with a request for notice of any hearing that may be held giving also the name and address to which such notice should be given.

THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD may approve of the said By-law but before doing so it may appoint a time and place when any objection to the By-law will be considered. Notice of any hearing that may be held will be given only to persons who have filed an objection or notice of support and who have left with or delivered to the Clerk undersigned, the address to which notice of hearing is to be sent and, similarly, to any person who has filed a request for a change in the provisions of the By-law.

THE LAST DATE FOR FILING OBJECTIONS will be August 15, 1979.

DATED AT THE TOWNSHIP OF GLAMORGAN the 23rd day of July, 1979.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Purpose:

In accordance with the provisions of Section 35 of The Planning Act, R.S.O., 1970, as amended, the Council of a Municipality may enact what is commonly referred to as a Restricted Area (Zoning) By-law to restrict the use of land. In this regard the Council of the Township of Glamorgan has proceeded with the preparation and subsequent enactment of the attached Restricted Area By-law, known as By-law No. 79-14.

The purpose of the By-law is to regulate the use of land and the character, location and use of buildings and structures; to prohibit certain uses of land and the erection and use of certain buildings and structures within the Municipality.

Lands Affected: The Restricted Area By-law, attached hereto as By-law No. 79-14 of the Corporation of the Township of Glamorgan affects all lands within the corporate limits of the Township. Upon approval of the By-law by the Ontario Municipal Board, the By-law will be effective from the date of enactment by the Council.

Effect of By-law:

By-law No. 79-14 shall be effective to regulate and restrict development within the Corporation of the Township of Glamorgan which may have or create an adverse effect with respect to existing areas or the proposed development of land for a use which may be considered to be detrimental to the future orderly development of the area. After the approval of the By-law, no land, building, structure or excavation shall be erected, altered or made, in whole or in part, for any purpose except in conformity with the provisions of this By-law or as may otherwise be permitted in accordance with the provisions of The Planning Act, R.S.O., 1970, as amended.

Notwithstanding the foregoing statement, however, the By-law will not apply to prevent or hinder the continued use of any land, building, structure or excavation, lot or premises, which, on the date of passing of the By-law, was legally used, erected, or occupied for any purpose prohibited by the By-law, so long as it continues to be used for that purpose.

The By-law divides the Township of Glamorgan into various Zones, primarily on the basis of the existing land use pattern at the date of passing of the By-law. Schedules "A1" and "A2" establish the zoning applicable to the Township. The basic provisions affecting the use of land within the various zone classifications are established on Schedules "B", "C" and "D" of the By-law. In addition to the aforementioned provisions there are certain general provisions which may or may not affect the use of lands, buildings, structures, excavations, lots or premises as contained in Section 10 of the By-law.

The Council of the Corporation of the Township of Glamorgan strongly urges that every property owner examine the Text and Schedules of the attached By-law so as to determine the status of their property holdings and note the effect of the By-law thereon. The importance of reviewing the regulations affecting one's property cannot be overemphasized. Schedules "A1" and "A2", the Zone Maps, have been reduced for the purposes of circulation of the By-law. Any person wishing to review the zone maps at their original size may do so at the Municipal Offices during regular office hours.

* Please note that in accordance with recent legislation, this By-law has been prepared using the metric system of measurement. Tables have been appended to the By-law which will serve to allow for a reasonable approximation of the imperial system.
